

PEKING IS SCENE OF DISTURBANCES BY THE SOLDIERS

FIRING REPORTED THIS EVENING—AMERICANS SAID TO BE SAFE.

MANCHU TROOPS LOYAL

Will However Only Protect the Forbidden City and the Royal Family and Nobles.

Peking, March 1.—At half past seven this evening desultory shooting again began in the city. It is believed that Yuan Shi Kai has lost some of his control. None of the troops except the Manchus are to be depended upon and they obviously care only to defend the Imperial and forbidden city.

Much Looting. Throughout the day looting of stores and residences has been going on in various parts of the city and there have been several skirmishes between the royal troops and the Manchus in the outskirts. The majority of Manchus however have left the central districts before morning.

Looters Killed. Ten looters captured in the act of carrying off property were executed on the spot by loyal soldiers, several of whom are patrolling the streets. The incendiary fires which were started last night have been all extinguished or died out. The loss is estimated approximately at $15,000.

Heavy Loss of Life. The number of the casualties that have occurred among the civilians and the soldiers is not known but is believed that loss of life has been heavy.

The outbreaks which was a most complete surprise both to the government and the foreign legations and there is some apprehension of a recurrence of the disorders tonight.

Simply Sporadic. London, March 1.—The British foreign office received a dispatch this morning from Sir John Jordan, British minister at Peking indicating that the outbreak in Peking was of a sporadic character and intimating such a favorable view of the situation that the grave fears engendered by the first dispatches to reach here has been greatly allayed.

No Americans. Tientsin, March 1.—A train from Peking has arrived here two hours behind schedule time. There were no European passengers on board. Another train which left Peking last night returned to that city after proceeding a short distance on account of firing being heard in the vicinity of the line.

Mutiny Is Reported. Tien Tsin, March 1.—The Chinese at Pong Tai a village about twenty miles south of Peking on the Peking-Tien Tsin Railway mutinied shortly after midnight this morning. There was much rioting in the native quarters. The foreign community composed entirely of railway employees and their families retired to the British post nearby where one hundred and fifty soldiers of infantry are stationed to guard the railway lines.

Dispatches from Peking declare that the situation there today is very serious. No reinforcement of the foreign troops for the legation are required at present however. Railway men believe Sen Kai was looted during the night. All train service between Peking and Tien Tsin has been suspended.

TRUST BREAKING IS SHAM SAYS SMALLEY

Economist Says That Standard Oil and Tobacco Company Dis-olution Was Merely Nominal.

Chicago, March 1.—Dissolution plans of the Standard Oil and American Tobacco companies were characterized as sham; judicial review of economic questions, an adversary and lawyers were presented as a course to business by speakers at the third conference of the Western Economic society which was begun here today. The speaker, Dr. J. H. Thompson, said that the origin of the Standard Oil and American Tobacco companies was the result of a combination of factors, and that the dissolution of these companies was merely a sham, and that the real issue was the control of the economy. He said that the Standard Oil company was a monopoly, and that the American Tobacco company was a monopoly, and that the dissolution of these companies was merely a sham, and that the real issue was the control of the economy.

PATTERSON WEAVERS TO GET SETTLEMENT

Early Settlement Between Employers And Silk Weavers To End Strike.

Patterson, N. J., March 1.—An early satisfactory settlement of the strike of the broad silk weavers today seemed probable. Several more firms have come to a settlement with their employees, some agreeing to the scale and others adopting a special scale because of certain grades of work.

TELL OF MASSACRE OF CHRISTIANS BY CHINESE OUTLAWS

Returned Missionaries Bring First Word of Murder of Eight Christians Last October.

San Francisco, March 1.—Bringing the first word of a massacre of eight persons connected with the Christian missions by fanatical Chinese outlaws last October, twenty four mission workers arrived yesterday on the liner China, from the province of Shensi in central China.

The victims of the slaughter were Geo. Astand, 13 years old; Mrs. Richard Beckman, Thelma Hackman, 12, Ruth Beckman, 8, Hulda Bergstrom, 13, Oscar Bergstrom, 10, Hulda Nelson, 16, and Geo. Vantine a teacher at the mission school at Shan Fu.

The story of the massacre was told by Rev. Philip Nelson, father of Hulda Nelson of the Scandinavian Alliance Mission at Pichow who with his wife and their five children were passengers on the China. In reporting the outrages of the Chinese, Mr. Nelson dwelt on the remarkable escape of Richard Beckman who after seeing his wife and daughter clubbed to death, waded into a lake with the three year old daughter in his arms and in the darkness escaped.

"There were about forty persons associated with the Scandinavian Alliance Mission stationed in the city of Pichow at the time of the massacre," said Mr. Nelson. "We had heard nothing but the vaguest rumors of the revolution and on Oct. 10 we started for Shan Fu to attend a meeting of the mission there. Accompanied by my wife and daughter Hulda and other missionaries we arrived in Shan Fu three days later. Hulda went out to a mission in the southern suburb in charge of Mr. Beckman while we remained at another mission.

Mission Is Attacked. "On Oct. 21 news of the revolution reached Shan Fu and a band of marauders responsible for the massacre started on their career of murder and pillage. The mission was one of the first places looted by the robbers. The gates of the mission were stormed at one o'clock in the morning.

"The Chinese surrounded the houses before the inmates had time to flee over a ladder placed for such an emergency at the rear wall. The house was barricaded and the bandits went on their way after setting fire to the walls.

Only Two Escape. "Two of the marauders returned to the mission after a little while and killed all of those hiding in the out-building either beating them to death or clubbing them down in the doorway. After Beckman helped his daughter, Thelma, over the wall she was soon caught and with a whispered conversation he overheard Beckman learned that he and his baby daughter were the only ones left alive and the bandits soon commenced to walk through the bushes in search of them. To escape them he waded to a little shallow pond where he was hidden by darkness and later made his way to another mission."

WAGE INCREASE TO SETTLE DISPUTES?

Posting of Increase of Five Per Cent In Wage Schedule Seems Satisfactory.

Lawrence, Mass., March 1.—The posting of notices today in the Arlington cotton and worsted mills which employ five thousand, five hundred hands, announcing a wage increase of at least five per cent to take effect next Monday, was regarded as an important step for the immediate settlement of the great textile strike which involves nearly twenty thousand persons.

Less Pickets. A scarcity of strikers during picket duty was apparent during the hours preceding the time for beginning work. There appeared to be a slight increase in the number of people entering the various mills.

Start For Washington. The party of children who have worked in the mills and who have been requested to appear before a congressional committee in Washington tomorrow, left this city at seven o'clock today. The delegation included only thirteen minors, of whom four were girls.

Woolen Company. Boston, March 1.—The American Woolen Company today notified its agents in all of its thirty-three mills in New England and New York state to advance wages five per cent. The order affects about thirty thousand operatives.

PROMOTE WOMAN WHO TOOK TAXI THIEVES

Saturday is "Man's Day" All Over America

By J. R. HAMILTON

ON Saturday the merchants of every city are more finical about pleasing the man than any woman could be.

Thousands of men are reading this page now. How many of you, or how few of you, realize the effort that has been expended merely to attract your eye.

Buyers have gone all the way to London and have tramped up and down Bond Street till their heels were sore, just to find something different in silks for your new spring tie. Chemists and mechanics and manufacturers and merchants have schemed and plotted and planned for a year to lower the price of a pair of socks for you. The clothes you are going to buy today have formed the very crux of the tariff fight on wool.

Able men have been at work. Windows have been trimmed and retrimmed under critical eyes in order that you might stop and look for a moment tomorrow morning as you walked along.

Artists and writers and buyers have racked their brains to do the thing that will please you most.

And here in this paper you are reading now are the stories of what they have done. Their advertising news on page after page is a report to you of their efforts.

Every line is worthy of your attention and your vital interest. Some merchants have saved you money; others have given you better goods; some of them, for real business reasons, have cut the profit on their own goods clear down to the quick.

There is no advertisement in this paper too small for you to notice. The thing that the small merchant has to offer may be the best of all. There is no advertisement too large for you to study carefully, because the big merchant has to put big thought upon what he has said and done.

So look them over, page by page, these advertisements, and make your choice from here. For these are the men who will give you the most or the best for your money—these men who advertise. They are the master merchants of this city, large and small; the men who had the courage to dare—and the ability to accomplish.

But this is not all a "man's day"—never fear.

For a "woman's day," is every day in the year

HONDURIAN REVOLT STARTED THURSDAY

Leader Crosses Line From San Salvador and Captures Small City.

Tegucigalpa, Honduras, March 1.—Jose Maria Villadarias, a Honduran revolutionary belonging to Amapala, yesterday crossed the San Salvador frontier into Honduras with sixty men and captured the border town of Arancibia.

Few Soldiers. There were only five Honduran soldiers stationed in Arancibia when the revolutionaries appeared. The Honduran government is rushing troops to the scene and expects to suppress the outbreak in a few days.

After Villadarias. It is probable that Villadarias will be captured as he has only a small following and is virtually a political outlaw in both San Salvador and Honduras. A number of prominent men in this city have been arrested.

Find Evidence. They had in their possession what are alleged to be incriminating documents connecting them with Villadarias' conspiracy.

In Paraguay. Buenos Ayres, March 1.—Liberto Rojas, president of the republic of Paraguay, has been made a prisoner by the revolutionary party in Asuncion and compelled to resign his office, according to a dispatch received here from that city today.

Is Accepted. The Paraguayan congress has accepted his resignation and appointed Pedro Pora, former Paraguayan minister to Port, to the office of provisional president.

FORTY VASQUISTAS KILLED IN BATTLE

Rebels Lost Heavily In Engagement With Mexican Federal Troops Today Near Juarez.

Mexico City, Mex., March 1.—Forty Vasquistas were killed and sixty wounded in a battle with government troops near Juarez in the state of Coahuila, according to a report from the commander of the government troops which has been received here. A detachment of one hundred federal and rural guards today recaptured San Juan Guadalupe which was held by the rebels.

Fight With Zapistas. Cuernavaca, Mex., March 1.—A body of federal troops under Col. Bonifacio today killed twenty Zapistas in a fight at Teneal in the state of Morelos. The federals had nine casualties.

LA FOLLETTE CAUSE AND PROGRESSIVISM GLOWINGLY PRAISED

Senator Gronna of North Dakota In Speech to Baltimore Club Gives Unqualified Tribute to Wisconsin Senator.

Baltimore, Md., March 1.—Prophecy that North Dakota would declare for Senator La Follette for president, Senator A. J. Gronna, before the Augustan Society here last night, paid a glowing tribute to the Wisconsin Senator. He sketched the growth of Republican "progressivism" and gave much of the credit for the movement to Senator La Follette who, he said, was "a man of ability, honor and courage, of the type of Lincoln and Roosevelt."

Mr. Gronna declared the progressive movement was not "mere factionalism," nor that it was engineered by men seeking personal political aggrandizement.

"Most unbiased observers," he said, "now recognize that the movement is more than a struggle between party factions and their leaders, with political pretensions or part control as the prize to be won, and that it is a movement in defense of popular rights and in opposition to the control of government by the great moneyed interests of the nation."

"Predicting that the 'stand-patters' in the Republican party would make a vigorous fight the adoption of the basic principles of progressivism, Mr. Gronna outlined them. They included, he said, the direct primary, the initiative, referendum and recall, the direct election of all United States Senators, a corrupt practices act and an income tax. Extension of the recall to the judiciary was demanded by the speaker.

"There is no reason why the judges should be exempted from the operation of this principle," he contended. (Continued on page 3)

NO NEWSPAPERS FOR STATE DEPARTMENTS

Attorney General Bancroft Decides That Purchase of Subscriptions Are Not Authorized.

Washington, W. D., March 1.—Attorney General Bancroft has ruled that under the law relating to the purchase of books and periodicals, no department in the state government is authorized to purchase subscriptions to newspapers. It is held that the law contemplates that departments may purchase only such books and periodicals as are of subjects with which the department is specifically concerned. Several vouchers intended to cover the payment of newspaper subscriptions for departments were recently returned without endorsement upon the assumption of irregularity now officially upheld.

EXPECT ROOSEVELT TO NAME HIS AIDS

Colonel Holds Important Political Conferences In New York Tonight.

New York, March 1.—Col. Roosevelt came to from Oyster Bay today to his office for further political conferences with political leaders engaged in furthering plans for the presidential nomination. The announcement of the selection of an executive committee with United States Senator Joseph N. Dixon of Montana as chairman, was expected today to be names of an administrative committee to be formed with Truman H. Newberry of Detroit, ex-secretary of the navy, as chairman.

OIL WAREHOUSE FIRE STARTS FROM SPARK

Friction Causes Big Fire In Standard Oil Company's Building at Minneapolis.

Minneapolis, March 1.—Friction of a small brass oil can in the hands of Michael Sepanski, striking a larger tank as he was drawing some benzine. It is thought, caused a spectacular fire in the warehouse of the Standard Oil Company here today. The loss will not exceed $30,000. No one was injured.

ENGLISH MINES ARE IDLE WITH MILLION MINERS ON STRIKE

Only One Mine Where Miners Have Decided to Stay At Work.—Coal Shortage Now Faced in South Wales.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] London, March 1.—With the exception of a few small quarries situated in isolated districts, all the coal miners of the country are idle this morning. In some of those places where work is still going on, notably in Warwickshire, where ten thousand men are employed, the miners will join the strikers tomorrow.

The only mine in the country where the men have decided to remain at work is a little one in the northern part of Wales, and there the mining is carried on under police protection. An official notice of the number of strikers who have already laid down their tools was given as 1,019,407.

Railways Affected. The greatest danger spot is in South Wales where the union funds are only sufficient to provide strike wages for the men for a short time. The railways through Wales issued a notice today that their train service would be curtailed and the other railways in Great Britain will follow this example tomorrow. The Miners' Federation resumed its conference this morning and one of the members expressed the opinion that the negotiations with the owners would be successfully terminated in the course of the next week. Public opinion generally endorses the government's decision to pass a minimum wage bill unless the remainder of the owners agree to the principle which has already been consented to by sixty per cent of the employers.

Conference Adjourns. The conference of the miners' federation adjourned after delegating to the executive committee full power to continue the negotiations with the owners and to summon the conference to meet again when it shall be necessary. Several hundred steamers are held up at the various ports through lack of coal, but managers of the Trans-Atlantic assert they are well provided with fuel lines.

TEXAS WILSON MEN HOLD A CONFERENCE

Supporters of New Jersey Expect to Capture Entire State Delegation For Him.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Austin, Texas, March 1.—Political interest in Texas is centered in a conference which is to be held at Waco tomorrow by friends of Woodrow Wilson who expect at that time to lay the foundation for an aggressive fight to elect forty delegates to the Democratic national convention who will be in favor of the nomination of the New Jersey governor for President. The Wilson partisans in the Lone Star State appear confident of capturing the entire delegation, but feel they should wake up aggressive a fight as if they regarded the result in doubt. As the result of the Waco meeting it is expected that vigorous campaign for a Wilson delegation to Baltimore will be maintained up to the time of the holding of the State convention or the State primaries. If he last named system of selecting the delegates is adopted by the State executive committee, there appears to be a popular demand for the holding of a presidential preference primary and in connection with the Waco conference tomorrow there will be a separate meeting of Democratic leaders from various parts of the State to consider the matter.

Discussing the political situation in Texas, with respect to the chances of Woodrow Wilson securing the support of the Texas delegation, Judge Cato Sells of Chicago, who is chairman of the executive committee of the Woodrow Wilson State Democratic League, says: "We are not only optimistic, but our confidence in the situation is justified by reports, coming through a systematic organization in practically every county in the State, which indicate that at least three-fourths of the Democrats of Texas are in favor of the candidacy of Governor Wilson, and that Texas will send a solid Woodrow Wilson delegation to the Baltimore convention."

KOREAN OUTRAGES ARE UNAUTHENTIC SAY AUTHORITIES

Reported Persecution of Converted Christians Has no Foundation in Fact According to Officials.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Seoul, Korea, March 1.—No Christian missionaries have been arrested in Korea and the reports of the persecution of Christian converts are absolutely without foundation according to a prominent official here this morning.

He also pointed out that Lieutenant General Count Terahara the Governor General of Korea had frequently supported the Christian missions.

The prisoners arrested in connection with the plot against the governor general are examined slowly and carefully by the medium of interpreters. The plot was deep-rooted. It was connected both in fact and in spirit with the conspiracy for the murder of Durham White Stevens, the advisor to the Japanese embassy in the United States who was killed in San Francisco by a Korean in March 1908.

Also with the assassination at Harbin by a Korean in October, 1909; of Prince Ito, and with the attack on the Korean premier, Yi Wang Weng who was stabbed by a Korean at Seoul in December, 1905.

FALLING TREE KILLS WELL KNOWN FARMER

Sullivan's death was witnessed by his young son who was assisting him in the work.

PROGRESSIVES IN BAY STATE ARE HOPEFUL

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Boston, Mass., March 1.—The opening gun in the campaign to swing Massachusetts into the Progressive Republican column at the election next fall will be fired tomorrow night. The local committee of the organization has completed arrangements for a mass meeting to be held at that time in Tremont Temple, with Senator Moses L. Chappin of Minnesota, Governor W. L. Stubbins of Kansas and former Governor J. Franklin Fort of New Jersey, as the head-line speakers. The personnel of the speakers' list is taken to indicate that the affair is to be a Roosevelt demonstration, though the promoters of the meeting declare that its sole object is to boom the progressive cause in this state, without regard to any individual candidate.

The political situation in Massachusetts this year is regarded as peculiar, and unless all signs go astray the Old Bay State, for many years looked upon as a rockribbed Republican, will be as well worth looking after by the C. O. P. managers as some of the other states that have been known in the past as "doubtful."

Encouraged by the re-election of Governor Foss last fall the Progressive Republicans propose to see what they can do to prevent a solid delegation being sent to the Chicago convention for President Taft. The Progressives say that Governor Foss' re-election proves two things, first that there is a strong progressive element in the state which is willing to support a progressive candidate, and secondly that a great many Republicans are dissatisfied with President Taft and his administration and took the only means in their power to show their disapproval by voting for the Democratic candidate for governor.

The President's championing of reciprocity, say the Progressives, was resented by the farmers who voted for Governor Foss, not because he was opposed to reciprocity, but to show their disapproval of the President's action. Business men, they also say, voted against the Republican candidate for governor as a rebuke to the President for prosecuting the trusts. At the same time, it is apparent that President Taft still has many warm and faithful friends in Massachusetts and the old-line party leaders express confidence in their ability to keep the state in line for the President's re-nomination and re-election. One of the stumbling blocks in the way of smooth sailing for the Roosevelt boom here is the attitude of Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, for many years past the acknowledged leader of the Republicans of Massachusetts. Senator Lodge, though a college mate and lifelong personal friend of Col. Roosevelt, is unalterably opposed to some of the latter's policies, particularly his support of the judicial recall, and it is not believed the Senator can be prevailed upon to support the movement for Roosevelt's nomination.

There was a very large crowd in attendance at the show this afternoon. Farmers from all the county were present to see the exhibits and to hear Prof. Leith's address which was of practical interest to grain growers.

Tonight at the high school auditorium at eight o'clock will be held the preliminary debate between Kenosha and Janesville upon the suffrage question. SUCCUMBS TO FUMES OF OVERTURNED LAMP

Martin Joyce, Aged Johnstown Man Suffocated Early Last Evening While Ill in Bed.

Martin Joyce, a bachelor, seventy-five years old, who has lived in Johnstown for the last fifty years, was found dead in bed early last evening at the home of his nephew, Martin Joyce, suffocated by smoke and fumes from a kerosene lamp which had been accidentally overturned. Mr. Joyce had been sick in bed and his weakened condition evidently made it impossible for him to help himself and reduced his resistance to the poisonous fumes. When the door of his room was opened it was found full of smoke.

Mr. Joyce was born in County Mayo, Ireland, in 1836. His parents emigrated to the United States when he was six weeks old and for some time made their home in Vermont. Later they moved to Milwaukee. Mr. Joyce settled in Johnstown fifty years ago and has made his home there ever since. Surviving him are one brother, Michael, who lives in Johnstown; three nephews and two nieces. They are: Martin Joyce of Johnstown, Michael, living in Minnesota, John of Seattle, Mrs. Anna Harrington of Brown's Valley, Minn., and Mrs. Briget Conannon of Seattle.

Regular mass will be celebrated at St. Mary's church at 10:30 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Miss Marion Brockway, the fourteen year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Brockway, passed away at 1:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the home of her parents, 1232 Racine street, succumbing to an attack of pneumonia, with which she had suffered for a week.

Marion was an eighth grade pupil at the Jefferson school, bright, and of a sweet disposition. She was born June 17, 1897. Many young friends will miss her and mourn her loss, with the bereaved parents and her five sisters. They are: Mrs. Nina Wilkins of Darlen, Mrs. Lois Hammond of Tiffany, Mrs. Sadie Smith of Clinton, and Amy and Florence Brockway, living at home. Funeral services will be held at the home at two o'clock tomorrow afternoon, the Rev. Dr. Houston, pastor of the Congregational church officiating. Interment will be in the vault at Oak Hill cemetery.

Fred C. Storey, who once lived in Janesville, died yesterday afternoon in Chicago, as the result of a stroke of apoplexy. He was fifty years old. Mr. Storey is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Storey, well known to the older residents of the city. His body will arrive here at noon tomorrow and be buried in Oak Hill cemetery, after brief services at the chapel.

Mrs. P. J. McKelgue.

Funeral services for Mrs. Patrick McKelgue were held at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon at the home, 502 Center avenue. The Rev. C. J. Korman, pastor of St. Paul's German Lutheran church, officiated. Messrs. Fred Wilkerson, Alfred Olson, Mrs. Thomas Olson, Mrs. C. Mohr were the singers. Those who acted as pallbearers were Eugene Roseling, William Taylor, C. V. Hawthorn, William Richter, John Nash and William Hamann. Interment was in Oak Hill cemetery.

Mrs. Patrick Dugan.

DAY JURY CALENDAR IS FIXED BY COURT

Case of Chas. Topp vs. H. C. Topp Scheduled First Decision in Lowell vs. Menzie—Change of Venue Denied.

The day calendar for the jury cases to be considered at the February term of the circuit court was partially made up by Judge Grimm this afternoon. The following cases will be considered in the order named: Charles Topp vs. H. C. Topp; Erasmus N. Sartell vs. Janesville Traction company; Agnes H. Cronin, adm., vs. Ellen Cronin; Advance Thrasher company vs. P. A. Sagan et al.; Angelo Ceramara vs. Beloit Iron Works, and Oscar Smith and Son vs. the Janesville Button Mill company. The jury jurors have been called for instructions and for selecting of the venire in the first case for Monday afternoon at two o'clock.

Judgment for Plaintiff.

The decision of Judge Grimm in the case of E. W. Lowell, etc., vs. James Menzie, which was recently heard, was filed in the office of the clerk of the court this afternoon. After reviewing the facts in the case which involved a dispute over the sale of land by the defendant while the plaintiffs were his agents for the sale of the same property, the court held that the plaintiff had a right to recover from the defendant on the ground that the contract was broken by the defendant. The plaintiff is entitled to a judgment in the sum of $388 and the interest on the same from Nov. 1, 1910.

Deny Change of Venue.

Judge Grimm today denies a change of venue in the case of Chas. H. Weber vs. Locomotive Engineers' Mutual Life and Accident Insurance association, and H. M. Bliss and Belle W. Bliss. Motion for a change of venue to Sauk county was brought by the defendants through their attorney, C. J. Hendricks. The motion was denied and the cost of the action granted to be paid by the defendant. The case is on the February jury calendar.

ROBBED OF HIS CASH WHILE ASLEEP IN HOTEL

Man Who Worked as Sewer Digger in Evansville, Awakes to Find Himself Short Fifteen Dollars.

Complaint was made to the police yesterday by a man giving the name of Kelly, that he had been robbed of fifteen dollars while asleep in rooms over the Hermann restaurant on South Main street. Chief Appleby made an investigation at his request, but found no one on whom suspicion could be placed. Kelly had been working in Evansville as a sewer digger. He had a deposit of $100 there and by sending a message to the bank was able to secure $50 of that amount. He claimed to be on his way to Kenosha and that he stopped over here because he could not make close connections.

The number should be reduced and the men that are licensed should understand that offenses will not be tolerated. Obey the law or forfeit the license.

TREASURY BALANCE NEAR FOUR MILLION

Largest Balance in The General Fund
Ever Known on March 1st, According to Table.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., March 1.—The Wisconsin state treasury today is in the best financial condition in the history of the commonwealth. The balance in the general fund on this date is approximately $3,887,800, the largest ever known, and over $1,000,000 in excess of the balance one year ago. The fund was brought to this highwater mark by the receipt today of a check for about $175,000 from the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance company, Milwaukee, in payment of the annual taxes.

The following table shows the general fund balance on this date for the last ten years:

March 1, 1903	$1,073,116 20
" 1904	1,159,243 00
" 1905	1,338,932 19
" 1906	1,529,914 46
" 1907	1,672,412 32
" 1908	1,834,028 59
" 1909	2,078,225 29
" 1910	2,387,800 00

On top of this unusual showing it is to be noted that nearly $1,000,000 in state taxes was remitted this year, this sum comprising the new capital appropriation of $150,000 and the normal school levy of $300,000. Had this not been done, the balance today would have been close to $5,000,000. State Treasurer A. H. Dahl states that the treasury will be in better condition at the beginning of next year than it has ever been at such periods. The showing here made, it is asserted, is sufficient to dispose effectively of intimations that the amounts of remitted taxes will have to be made up by the people in various forms later.

ANNUAL SPORTSMEN'S SHOW IS OPENED IN NEW YORK.

Boy Scouts Have Conspicuous Part—
Prominent Marksmen in Contest for Championship Titles.

New York, March 1.—Bigger, better and bigger is the slogan of the eighteenth annual Sportsmen's Show, which opened in Madison Square Garden today and will continue through the coming week. The exhibition this year has the familiar setting of outdoor life, with a liberal display of trophies of the chase, but many features of the program are entirely new. The Boy Scouts are to have a conspicuous part in the show, while the trapshooting competitions, and other sports will be conducted on a larger scale than heretofore. Some of the foremost marksmen of America will be seen in the shooting championships and special events of the targets will be held for boys. The management has set aside tomorrow as Boy Scout's Day and next Tuesday will be Children's Day. A feature of Children's Day will be a barbecue upon the stage, when each child can enjoy a hunter's feast.

"AMERICAN GIRL" IS PLEASING PLAY

Adelaide Dalton Stock Company Gave
Good Production at Myers Theater
Last Evening.

For a play which presents a wholesome and appealing story, "The American Girl," presented by the Adelaide Dalton Stock Company at the Myers Theater last evening was all that could be desired. It met the approval of the audience last night and is sure to be greeted by a large attendance tonight and tomorrow night.

The play is of the pleasing sort of melodrama which is so acceptable and deals with the troubles of a wife, "The American Girl," who has become separated from her husband and of her vain search to find him. The situation allows some interesting complications in the way of an interloper who makes trouble for all in seeking his own ends. The scene is set in Virginia and is carried to London for the other three. The action of the piece is good and the strong points were well presented by the members of the Dalton company.

Miss Dalton as "Jasmine," (the American girl) gave a delightful portrayal of her part, and Miss Searles as "Twistlers" and then as "Miss Surtok" was equally pleasing. Mr. Rolfe in the part of the English nobleman did some good acting as did Mr. Briggs as Col. Bolter, and Mr. Matthews as "Samson Craft," the villain of the piece.

FORMER JANSVILLE PEOPLE WITNESS EXCITING HOLD-UP

Mrs. Stoller, Daughter of W. T. May,
Witness of Street Car
Robbery at Omaha.

W. T. May of this city recently received a letter from his daughter, Mrs. G. Stoller of Omaha, in which she speaks of a rather exciting incident that occurred directly in front of her home a short time ago.

In the evening about dinner time they heard several revolver shots and going to the window were in time to see a street car held up by three bandits. The motorman, conductor and passengers were all relieved of their valuables and money before the car was allowed to go on.

A similar hold-up occurred in another part of the city but three quarters of an hour before. Mr. Stoller is general manager of a large transit company in Omaha and will be remembered as the son of the late Charles Stoller.

WOMAN HAD GREAT FEELING OF DREAD

HEART TROUBLE AND OTHER
COMPLICATIONS CAUSED
LIFE OF TERROR.

UNITED DOCTORS CURE HER.

Violent Palpitation of Heart, Catarrh and Other Troubles Relieved.

How often people live lives of misery without knowing the cause of this condition. Often one hears of someone saying they have a feeling that something terrible is going to happen to them or those near them. Friends laugh at them and tell them nothing can happen—but all this does not tend to lessen the fear and dread that overcomes this person.

The cause of this feeling of apprehension is often due to some physical disarrangement that reacts upon the mind. The following letter written to the United Doctors, the expert specialists, who have their Janesville Institute in the Hayes Bldg., corner of Milwaukee and Main St., will give an interesting insight as to how diseases and ailments often react on the mind.

"Dear Doctors: I have been a sufferer since childhood with heart trouble. The slightest exertions such as walking up stairs, would produce violent palpitation and discomfort. At those times a terrible feeling of fear and apprehension would come over me. I also had catarrh and other troubles and naturally despaired all the time but obtained no relief. I came to your institute and now after taking only two months of your wonderful treatment I wish to say my troubles have vanished and that I feel like I can go up stairs and do many things now that I could never do before. I am well. I write this for publication and hope this directs other people who are sick like I was to go to you.

Sincerely,
MRS. M. PETERSON,

New One on Venus.

Mary, an older sister, had spent the morning shopping in town. Among her purchases was a square of dark red velvet which she intended to use as a background for a beautiful little statue of Venus de Milo, which had recently been presented to her. Just as she had temporarily fastened the velvet on the wall back of the Venus, her small brother, Bobby, aged 5, walked into her room. "Well, Bobby," said Mary, "how do you like my Venus de Milo?" Bobby looked thoughtful for a moment or so and then replied, "No, Mary, I wouldn't. I'd take it down and wrap it around her!"—Lippincott's.

Superstition Inane.

Death has no pet dates—just as many fortunes have been made on Friday as on Monday and just as many men have died on the tenth as on the thirteenth of the month. The host of the owl is only fatal to sleep. To pass under a ladder is merely unintelligent—the inside is the more dangerous side. Your great-grandfather burned witches—you burn electric lights. Wake up! You're not in the dark ages.—Woman's World.

Not Going to Let Him Escape.
"Smithers is discouraged about his love affair." "What's happened?" "He was in the act of proposing last night when the girl's mother and father came in." "What did Smithers do?" "Stopped short, of course." "What did the girl do?" "She said: 'What were you saying, Mr. Smithers?'"—Life.

Registered in Churches.

One of the strangest things in connection with the recent registration in Los Angeles is that many of the registrations were made in the churches. Women attending prayer meetings were approached and if they had not registered they were asked to do so. As nearly 75,000 women are on the registration books, it does not look as though they objected to voting.

Building for Archives.

In other countries, notably Great Britain and France, the national archives are most carefully kept. But we need not go abroad for inspiration as to the proper manner of handling documents. The thousands who daily frequent the numerous public libraries throughout the United States must realize the importance of having accurate and authentic information "on tap." All of them must at some time or other have studied the history of their country, which of necessity is based largely upon national documents. This demand, therefore, for the construction of a national archive building is neither more nor less than a plea for the preservation of American history.

Her Absorbing Fear.

"You never got to banquets with your husband." "No, I'm always afraid that they will ask him to make a speech." "And can't he make one?" "That's it exactly. He can't. But if he were asked I just know he'd get up and try."—Detroit Free Press.

Subject of Prime Importance.

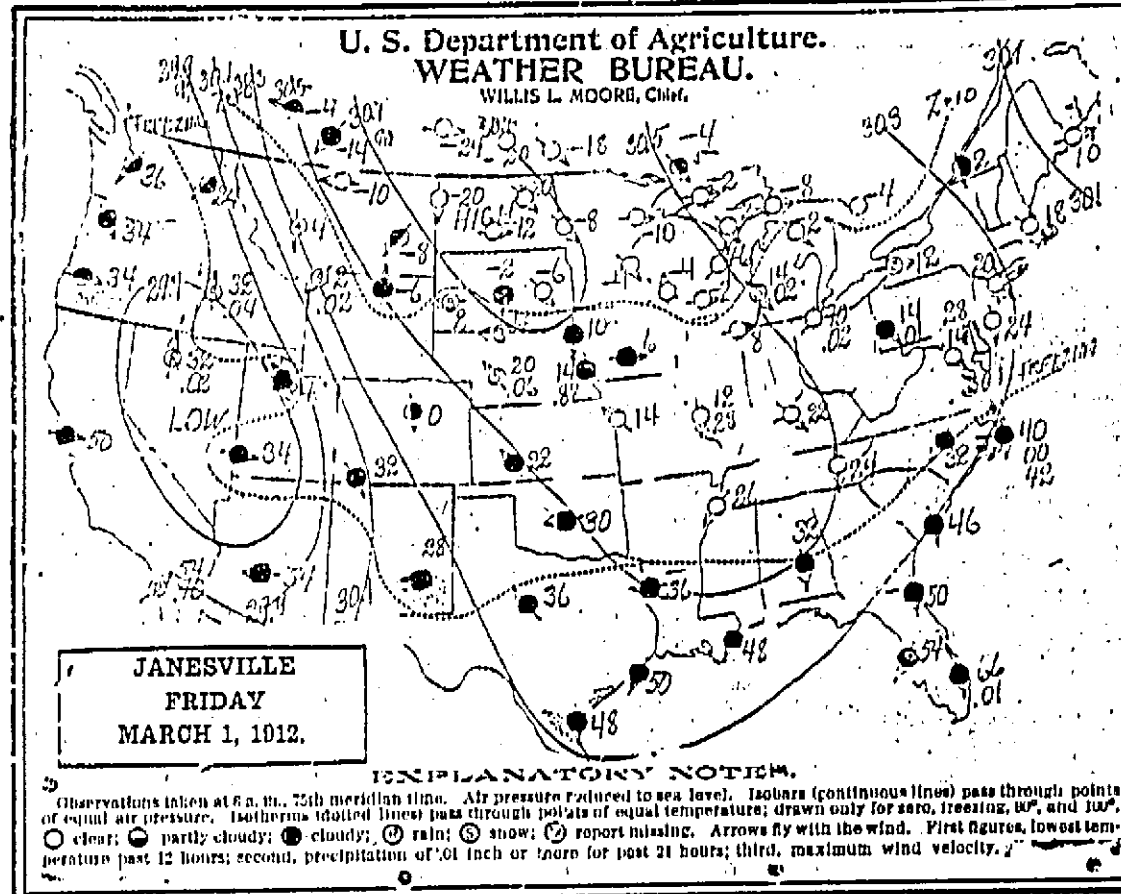

Weather is the one topic of conversation that never grows out of date. We are almost as nearly at the mercy of the sunshine, the rain and the snow storm as we were a century ago. Therefore we always scan the sky when we get up in the morning. It is almost instinctive, even with the city dweller. No farmer fails to take a long look at the sky when he first rises, for on the weather will depend his activities during the day.

Then He Went to the Club.

"After I am gone," he complained, "people will begin to notice what I have done." "Well," his wife softly replied, "if they do it won't take them long."—Chicago Record-Herald.

We Surrender Carrots.

The Music Was Fatal.

A New York politician once found it necessary to attend an entertainment at an orphan's home and he was having a bad time of it. The selection by the boys' band was particularly distressing. Turning to a friend, the politician said with a shudder, "No wonder they are orphans."—Success.

One of the Mysteries.

"The railroad business is pretty complicated." "Yes," replied the traveling man. "I don't suppose I ever will be able to understand why two towns that look so close together on a railway map get so far apart when they come to measure up the distance with a mileage book."

Having an Understanding.

COUNTING GOVERNORS.

The Chicago Tribune comes out very strongly on the proposition of counting governors as a criterion on how the various states they represent really stand on the question of "Taft or Roosevelt." It is just the idea that the Gazette tried to impress on the voters some days ago when the call was issued for Roosevelt to become a candidate by eight governors, none of whom probably more than controlled his own vote, yet signed themselves as governors of this or that state. The Inter-Ocean says in part:

"The Taft and Roosevelt campaign managers are badly engaged in counting governors. The Roosevelt side claimed eight or nine a few days ago and now the Taft men come out and show that he has eleven or twelve—or three more governors than his opponent."

"This is no doubt an interesting game to those engaged in it. We can imagine them becoming so absorbed in the sport of counting governors as to forget to consider calmly how much the governors really count. From a practical viewpoint, however, this matter is not to be neglected."

"One thing is certain: If the governors of the states are to be regarded as having the political significance that the enthusiasm of the governor-elect would seem to indicate, then the democrats are reasonably sure of carrying the presidential election and all this fuss and fury on the republican side is entirely superfluous."

"One has only to hark back to the results of the democratic landslide two years ago to realize that. New York, New Jersey, Maine, Connecticut, Indiana, Ohio—not to mention dozens of other doubtful commonwealths—have democratic governors. In brief, the democrats have the governor of so many pivotal states that their party is certainly prepared to beat the republicans at governor counting."

"But, fortunately for the republican party, governors don't count quite as much as some people seem to think. They are important men in their states, of course. But their preferences are very far from putting their states in the column of any candidate for the nomination."

"The time when the governors of the states counted most in this country was during the Civil war period. The system of volunteer enlistments, the need of conciliating local opinions, the exigencies of the troubled politics of the day, unquestionably served to make the governors of the day more important national figures than they have ever been since, or, for that matter, ever were before."

"Nothing remotely resembling such a situation exists today. The governors are, for the most part, respectable gentlemen who are full of troubles of their own, with strong opposition in their own parties as well as from the opposite party. It is useless to ground either confidence or dependance on them, though for purely statistical purposes their names do look impressive in a row."

OBVIOUSLY.

Collier's Weekly has switched from support of Senator La Follette to that of Colonel Roosevelt without the least compunction, and now makes the following suggestion to all progressive republicans to follow their lead with out any less compunctions.

"If Senator La Follette had turned out to have the strongest following for the nomination among progressive republicans, it would have been the duty of Theodore Roosevelt to support him to as full an extent as possible. As the majority obviously supports Colonel Roosevelt, it seems to us that, while Senator La Follette is fully justified in remaining a candidate if he really deems such a course helpful to the progressive cause, he would show the worst of judgment if he did not at the same time give his cordial approval to the Roosevelt movement."

How this will please the La Follette supporters in Wisconsin will be hard to answer. One would think that they would not be awayed by such an argument and would at least feel they had been sold out by the man who assured their candidate he was not going to enter the race.

Where does McMill McCormick expect to light next? First one of the strongest supporters of Senator La Follette, he was among the first to desert to the Roosevelt standard and became the self-appointed chief of campaign of the Oyster Bay gentleman. Now the Colonel has come into the open to repudiate Mr. McCormick's efforts and replaces him by Senator Joseph M. Dixon of Montana. Truly the ways of the reformer are hard.

We are told that in voting at the April primaries we will not have the opportunity of casting a ballot for our choice for vice president, but that we can write the name in. Have you anyone in mind you would like to bury politically?

Have you decided whom you are going to support at the coming primaries for mayor and commissioners? Remember that you can only vote for three men, so make your choice wisely.

POLITICS AND POLITICIANS.

Eight candidates are contending for the Republican nomination for governor of Illinois.

Vermont Republicans will meet in Montpelier April 10 to select delegates at large to the Chicago convention.

Governor Kitchin of North Carolina is making a stumping tour of the state in his candidacy for the seat of United States Senator Simmons.

Albert H. Shaw, a wealthy lumberman of Bath, has announced that he will be a candidate in the Republican primaries for governor of Maine.

Ex-Governor Fort of New Jersey and United States Senator Clapp of Minnesota are to address a mass meeting of progressive Republicans at Massachusetts in Boston, March 2.

The campaign in New Jersey to bring about the selection of Roosevelt delegates to the National Republican convention will be opened with a mass meeting in Newark on the evening of March 1.

Three candidates are already in the field for the Republican gubernatorial nomination in Iowa—George W. Clarke, the present lieutenant governor; A. Z. Proudfoot, a member of the state senate; and Perry G. Hudson, until recently a professor at the Iowa Agricultural College.

A Brooklyn newspaper says a number of prominent New York State Republicans maintain that James B. Garfield, who was secretary of the Interior in Roosevelt's cabinet, is Colonel Roosevelt's "dark horse" candidate for the Republican nomination for President of the United States.

A tentative plan framed for the Rochester convention in April names State Chairman William Barnes, Jr., United States Senator Elihu Root, William H. Hall of Brooklyn and President Jacob Gould Schurman of Cornell University as the probable members of the "Big Four" to represent New York State at the Republican National Convention.

The Swedish-American Republican League of Illinois is making elaborate preparations for its annual meeting, which will be combined with the celebration of the Monitor-Merrimack centennial in Chicago on March 5. The league hopes to have President Taft speak at the banquet which will be the chief feature of the evening.

George H. Hodges, a well known in politics, has announced his candidacy for the nomination for governor on the "progressive" Democratic ticket. Opposed to Hodges for the nomination will be J. B. Ballard, mayor of Topeka. The chief plank in Ballard's platform is the reorganization of the prohibitory law, in which he is opposed by Hodges.

Simultaneous with the withdrawal of Congressman Morris Shephard from the race to succeed Senator Bailey comes the announcement of the candidacy of Cone Johnson for Bailey's seat. Johnson once was attorney-general of Texas and has long been a bitter political foe of Senator Bailey. He is aligned with the prohibition element and is known as an able campaigner.

In the April primaries in Nebraska all parties will make their selection of candidates for congressional and presidential electors. Members of the legislature and governor and other state officers. In addition, national committee men will be selected, delegates to the national conventions named and a preference vote taken for President and Vice-President and one United States senator.

WASHINGTON
BY ROY K. MOULTON

A GREENHORN IN WASHINGTON.

Feb. 8.

Dear Editor:
Nobody seems to be in a hurry in Washington. There is the senate restaurant, for instance. There is a legend to the effect that one of the waiters took in order there once from a senator, was arrested on his way to the kitchen, and spent nine years in jail. He returned to the restaurant at the expiration of his term, got his old job back, served the order to the senator, and was given an extra tip for his promptitude. There was another senator who went there for dinner one noon and by the time he got back to the senate chamber his term of office had expired and the legislature had sent a new man to take his place. It is suspected that the noted Charlie Ross, who disappeared some forty years ago, is somewhere in the senate restaurant waiting for an order to be served.

They take things easily in Washington, even your money. They begin to think of getting down to business in the morning about one o'clock in the afternoon and at three o'clock they begin to think about going home. Some of the stores are not open more than fifteen minutes a day, and some of the restaurants remain open so briefly that they will serve only short order cooking.

Even the elevators are slow. By the time I got up to the third floor after lunch it is time to start down again to dinner. The elevator boys tell me he has made several round trips during his life and hopes to equal the record of his father, who made thirteen round trips, but his father lived to be a very old man.

It isn't easy to get in to see the President. One is obliged to submit to the scrutiny of two policemen on the sidewalk in front of the executive offices. Then there are two policemen at the door and four or five secretaries.

I have just been through the Corcoran art gallery, but perhaps the least said about that the better. It is no place for the deacon of a church, and I will touch the subject but lightly. All the old girls are there—Yanus, Psycho and all the rest—and they ought to be ashamed of themselves. It is a good thing for them that the winters here are not so severe and that the building is heated by steam. I will tell you more about the Corcoran art gallery privately when I see you.

I can't name the teeth, as she lives with us and the children call her mother.

Speaking of Possibilities. Oshkosh, Northwestern: Another thing to be taken into consideration is the chance of La Follette becoming the logical successor to Roosevelt, should the latter be nominated and elected this year. For Roosevelt is a man of surprise and might refuse re-election in 1916.

Heart to Heart Talks.
By EDWIN A. NYE.

TAKE YOUR WIFE'S ADVICE.

Some one has said:
"When a man has talked step by step up a flight of stairs he will be sure to find a woman at the top, but she may not be able to tell how she got there."

A man comes up to a conclusion by the slow steps of deliberate logic. Inductively the woman reaches it by a single bound.

Therefore should you contemplate some important step without having consulted your wife—don't!

Her intuitive insight may be worth more than your deliberate reasoning. Especially is the normal average woman quick to see the right or wrong involved in a proposition. She jumps upon subtle distinctions and evasive phrasings and lands on the firm footing of eternal righteousness.

Ethically every woman is a seer. And especially clear are the eyes of a wife in any matter involving the welfare or the good name of her family.

Make your wife a close confidant in all things, and the sequel will prove her wisdom.

There was Victoria Colonna. She is a strong character in the history of her times. Her husband was a friend of the great Charles V. At one time the husband was offered the crown of Naples if he would join the league against Charles. The man was strongly tempted. He referred the matter to his wife. She bade him spurn the proposal.

Not every wife would thus refuse to be queen. But—

Most wives would:
Because the alliance contemplated the base betrayal of a friend, and the heart of a true woman instinctively is turned against such baseness.

Seek your wife's advice. She is your best friend, your most competent and wisest counselor.

The writer speaks from long experience. Almost invariably he has made a mistake when he failed to confer with his wife or has proceeded contrary to her advice.

A wife will help to clear away difficulties and suggest ways and means that might not occur to the husband.

"Two heads are better than one," especially if one be a woman's head.

PRESS COMMENT.

How Can You Tell?
Beloit News: "I will adhere to this decision until the convention has expressed its preference," says Roosevelt. Yet there was one other decision to which he did not adhere. So how can you tell?

How Can This Be?
Racine Times: The suffragettes claim equality with men. Yet here is a St. Paul man who has won a prize for embroiling a lunch cloth, and where is the woman who has won a prize for carrying the biggest load of break up a ladder?

Fond du Lac Commonwealth: The Madison loan it appears, are not all in accord with the woman suffrage movement. At any event a counter movement has been launched in that city under the name of the Madison Association. Opposed to woman's suffrage and a board of directors elected to manage the campaign which it is proposed to launch. This does interest increase in the suffrage movement in Wisconsin.

The Star: Harrison Fishel says he can name the ten most beautiful women in the nation. We don't believe it. He may be able to tell where the nine live but we are

One on Mamma.
Two little girls during the Christmas feasting the other day were confronted with the problem of selecting a choice from two apples—one apple much bigger and redder than the other. The mother of the little girl who was the hostess of the moment was trying to have her decision give the finer apple to the visiting little neighbor. "Your papa," she said, "is a gentleman, you know, and always generous and kind to everybody. You know very well that if it were father he would give this nice big rosy apple to Mamma and take the other for herself. You are father's little girl, aren't you? You want to do just what father would, don't you?" Father's mind was visibly troubled, but she clung to the big apple. "I don't father's little girl," she argued, logically but not flatteringly. "I'm your little girl." The mother, however, is one who can very safely tell this story on herself.

Getting Even.
Eels are the luxury of the East end, and the fish shop stuck up proudly the notice "We sell eels to the king." From the opposite side of the road the rival salmon man watched his customers diverted to the shop that claimed to supply the royal table with eels. And then, after a week's reflection, he put up the rival notice: "God save the king!"—London Chronicle.

Her Kind.
A woman went into a hardware store in Atchison, the Globe says, and asked to be shown a "harmless revolver" as a protection against burglars. She had asked her husband what kind of a revolver to buy, and he had recommended a "hammerless."

The Great New Goods Sale

Most marvelous values anywhere. It is a very easy thing to use adjectives, but a careless thing to do if they are not more than backed up by the goods. The goods must be a little better than the description in order that disappointment may not wait upon realization in such an event. As this, The very best advertisement of The Big Store's New Goods Sale has been the comment of the purchasers who show their pleasure and admiration without stint, calling attention to the fact that the materials are excellent in every piece; that the workmanship shows care, every stitch speaking for that care of detail—every piece in fact, is made just as if it were to be sold for the regular price. Worthy of Janesville's Greatest Store is this sale and series of sales.

Mrs. Strong gives as her reason for requesting the information that the parties mentioned are her parents, whom she has not seen since 1862 or '63. They are of Scotch extraction.

CHINESE SITUATION IS ABLY OUTLINED

Senator Whitehead and Dr. Beaton
Speak at Congregational
Brotherhood Meeting Last Evening.

The brotherhood of the Congregational church held their regular reception and supper in the church parlors last evening at 8:15 and a delightful report was served under the guidance of Fred A. Cappellet and assistants.

Otto A. Oestreich was master of the evening and after a delightful number by the symphony orchestra and several songs by Mrs. W. E. Hahler, the new musical director of the church, Senator John M. Whitehead gave an address on "The Republic of China." He gave those present an splendid insight into conditions as they have been in the empire and developments which have led up to the uprising and demand for a republican form of government.

He stated that the missionary movement and the consequent education of those people was responsible for the change in conditions and said that the boxer uprising ten years ago was the last feeble effort of the old regime to hold the people in bondage and ignorance. He paid a high tribute to the missionaries and general work being carried on by the churches and spoke of the high character of the men who were foremost in the formation of the Chinese republic.

Dr. David Beaton gave a very interesting talk on the impact of the republic in China and predicted a rapid development in both the commercial and educational future of the new republic. He believed that the great capacity of the Chinese people for merchandising would within the next few years make them one of the leading countries of the world and opportunities for trade would be numerous.

The Chinese are a material people—there are no class distinctions and as they develop will in the next fifty years bring about many surprises in the rest of the world. He predicted that the Pacific ocean would become a great avenue for commercialism between the Orient and this country and the Panama Canal would place America in position to take advantage of the new commercial conditions. He thought that this feeling towards the Chinese in order to be able to trade with them on a favorable basis.

Arthur M. Fisher had a few words to say on the question prior to the adjournment of the meeting.

START STEEL WORK FOURTH AVE. BRIDGE

Two Pair of Girders Placed And Floor Beams of One Span
Installed—Halt Work on Tubes.

Steel construction on the superstructure of the new Fourth Avenue bridge has begun with the placing of two pair of girders over their supporting piers and the putting in place of the "T" beams to support the floor on one of the spans. The cold weather the last two or three days has made work with the pile driver inconvenient and the entire crew has devoted its energies to moving the steel out upon the bridge and placing it in position.

From now on it is planned to employ two crews, one of which will work on the superstructure and the other complete the setting of the piers and the concrete work. Two are still to be sunk and another has not yet been anchored with piles. Three tubes are ready for concrete. A cement floor will be laid on the Macin Street bridge as soon as the weather permits.

BOY SCOUTS HAVE AN ORGANIZATION

Clinton Company Holds First Drill
Last Evening.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Clinton, March 1.—The Boy Scouts met last evening at the Congregational church parlors and were given a splendid "setting up" training by W. A. Beaver. Mr. Beaver is a graduate of the best military college in the country, other than West Point, and is most excellently fitted to drill the boys, not only on account of his fine training and experience, but because of his genial and pleasant, yet commanding personality which endears him to the boys.

Joseph Brown and wife returned from Milwaukee Tuesday evening and report Mrs. Brown's mother, Mrs. De Wolf, was better.

Wrote to Mr. and Mrs. Fred Weaver, a baby girl yesterday morning, the Miss Katherine Williams believes in Clinton real estate as an investment as she has purchased the Dr. J. W. Jones house and lot on South Durant street, now occupied by L. D. Foxenden and family.

Will Harden, of Elgin, Ill., was here yesterday to see his father, Mr. Harden reports Mrs. F. A. Ames as in very good health other than the prevalent cold.

Mrs. N. O. Tarbell of Lake Geneva is visiting her sister, Mrs. A. J. Boden. The postal savings bank opened in Clinton on Feb. 21, and it is reported that the deposits made of twenty cents, it certainly is filling a long felt want in Clinton. The money will be deposited in the Detroit post office.

The bridge club met with the Misses Northrop yesterday afternoon. The club has been invited to go to Detroit next Thursday afternoon to play and it was voted to accept the invitation. Miss Meyer of Duron is visiting Mrs. F. W. Horron.

"If the people have the right to say what laws shall be enacted, they have the right to say what those laws mean after having been enacted. Otherwise more or less ineffective, laws can be nullified in their interpretation. This applies whether the laws in question are constitutions or statutes. If the people have the right to adopt a constitution they also have the right to have that constitution interpreted in accordance with their understanding of it."

Mr. Cronin charged that an organized attempt had been made throughout the country to picture La Follette as "an irresponsible reactionary and impracticable visionary, whose efforts would be destructive and not instructive."

La Follette's Record.
"An examination of La Follette's record, however," he said, "of the laws, the enactments of which he has secured as governor and as senator, or whose enactment he has urged if not able to secure it, ought to convince any candid man that honest legitimate business has nothing to fear from La Follette's election to the presidency."

La Follette's record as governor of Wisconsin then was taken up by Mr. Cronin, who dwelt at considerable length on the former's policy with reference to the railroads of the state. "This policy," he said, "has resulted in a complete regulation of railroad rates, fair alike to the companies and to the shippers, and has established a new relationship between the common carriers and the people of the state of Wisconsin highly beneficial to both."

Referring to the Wisconsin Senator's tariff views, Mr. Cronin said his policy was merely "an attempt to the differences in cost of production at home and abroad." La Follette, he said, advocated the establishment of a permanent tariff board to arrive at this difference, but the board modeled on lines differing from the one now existent.

"A tariff commission," he said, outlining the La Follette idea, "should be established by law having full power to secure all needed information in regard to any industry—which the present tariff board has not—assured of its continuance even if one branch of Congress should temporarily be in control of a party hostile to it, and making its reports to Congress, as the law-making body, and not to the President as the tariff board now does."

For Business Stability.
Mr. Cronin then touched on La Follette's opposition to the Canadian reciprocity measure, his connection with the framing of the McKinley tariff law and his condemnation of the proposed monetary legislation, by which the Senator contended "the Money Trust would then control not one industry, but practically all industries."

Because of La Follette's attitude on these questions, Mr. Cronin declared "his business" had been to look with open consternation on the Wisconsin Senator's candidacy for the Presidential nomination.

"Some have been fearful lest in the event of La Follette's election to the presidency," he said, "there would be such an indiscriminate attack on all corporations as to unsettle business and shake the stability of our industries." With La Follette in the Presidential chair, trusts and combinations in restraint of trade and other unlawful corporations would ostensibly be prosecuted and made to conform with law, but instead of affecting our industries disastrously, as some fear, La Follette's policy would make for industrial stability and commercial tranquility.

"I have not discussed all of the principles and policies for which La Follette stands, but enough to show those business men who fear that his election would mean industrial calamity and commercial depression how unfounded are their fears. The enforcement of the La Follette policies would not mean the destruction of a single legitimate business industry."

In concluding Mr. Cronin declared La Follette had "faith in the capacity of the American people for self-government," and referred to him as "an unselfish champion of the people's cause, a man who in his fight for the right never accepts defeat."

CROSSINGS MUST NOT BE
CLOCKED UNNECESSARILY

Superintendent Warns Trainmen Not
To Clock Crossings at Fort Atkinson and Janesville.

Superintendent Fisher wrote recently to local trainmen to take care about blocking crossings both here and at Fort Atkinson. Some complaints have been received by him lately with reference to the crossing just south of the Jones Sausage factory at the Fort and also of the crossing south of the cannery factory just out of the Janesville city limits. Trainmen are warned not to leave cars standing there for several hours or even longer where they will block the street.

Word was received by the local safety committee that there would be a meeting of the division representatives at the superintendent's office at Chicago on March 4. This is the first meeting which has been announced for several months and came just at a time when the local yard men thought that the safety committee meetings of the whole division had been dropped or discontinued.

GEN. PASCUAL OROZCO
POWER IN MEXICO.

Mexico City.—The one man in Mexico who holds the key to the present crisis more than any other is General Pascual Orozco. If he is loyal to the Madero government as Madero claims he is, then the revolution is not as serious as current reports state if he has decided to lead the revolutionary forces, then Madero and the government are very apt to fall. He is without exception the most popular leader in the entire country and may at some time figure as a Presidential candidate.

WILL TAKE NO VOTE ON VICE-PRESIDENT

Petition Signed by 1,000 Names Required to Put Name on Presidential Primary Ballot.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Madison, Wis., March 1.—In voting their presidential preference ballots at the April primary, voters of Wisconsin will probably not express themselves on their choice for vice-president. They will have opportunity to do so and the law specifies that they may do so in the same way and at the same time that they vote on their favorite presidential candidates. To place the name of a presidential or a vice-presidential candidate on the official ballots in Wisconsin this spring will require a petition with 1,000 names.

Send Petition Blanks.
Progressives have sent out petition blanks in the interest of Senator La Follette, and these are expected to be returned shortly with the required number of signatures. The same will no doubt be done relative to the candidates of Taft, Wilson, Clark and possibly Roosevelt and others in Wisconsin. But no apparent interest is taken in this state in vice-presidential candidates; public political interest seems completely absorbed in the rivalry for the presidential nominations in the two principal parties.

Ballots for Each Party.
In this state there will be a ballot for each party. The ballots will be fastened together at the top so that the one desired to be voted can be torn off. Each party ballot will contain the names of all certified candidates of that party for president, vice-president and delegates to the national convention. It is probable, from present indications that the Wisconsin ballots will be blank in the vice-presidential space, and voters sufficiently interested may write in the name of their choice for vice-president.

In the Smart Set.
A woman who lives in one of the fashionable districts of New York telephoned the police. "A little baby's been left in the vestibule. We found it just a few minutes ago and wrapped up in a black shawl. We really don't know what to do with it." "Good-night. We didn't know it was getting as bad as all that," Toledo Blade.

Made Himself Immune.
Mithridates, great ruler of Pontus, gradually hardened himself against every known poison by taking tiny doses; that no poison could catch him napping.

Moving stairways.
The advantages of moving stairways include the following: (a) There is no waiting. (b) The service is continuous throughout traffic hours. (c) Passengers are carried practically to the point of their destination, and the necessity for long connecting passageways is thus avoided. (d) Moving stairways can deliver the same number of people for a short or long rise, whereas with lifts the capacity is dependent on the number of lifts and the depths of the shafts. (e) In case of breakdown passengers can walk up a moving stairway as up an ordinary staircase.

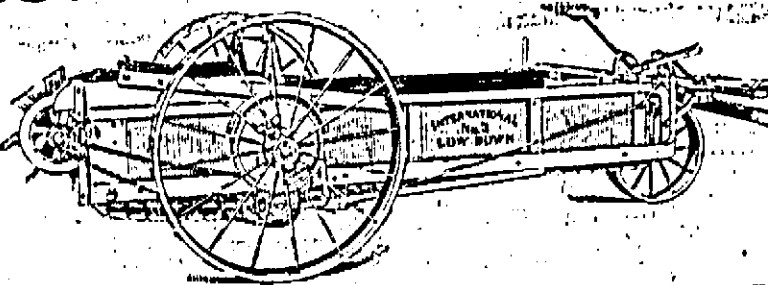

Valuable Lace Handkerchiefs.
Milkmaids in Switzerland make handkerchiefs of lace that readily sell for $5 apiece—some, indeed, for as much as $50 each.

Simple Question.
"What is the difference," asks the man with the dispirited whiskers and the keen eye, "between a girl with a clothe on her nose, and one whose little brother is quarantined because of a disease incident to childhood, which is characterized by an eruption of the skin?" "To avoid argument," sighs the man with the rectangular Adam's apple, "what is the difference?" "One's brother is measles, the other's brother is muzzled." And after down the girl arose the mournful cry of a loon lamenting its lost love.—Chicago Post.

Wisdom of Women.
Man who went to sleep with all his hair awake to find half of it cut off. Ought to take a tip from the woman. They always cut their hair away for the night.—New York Herald.

Preferred Jail to Marriage.
A country judge in England has just delivered the most sentimental decision ever heard of in his particular "neck of the woods." He told a burglar he would suspend sentence on him if he would agree to marry and settle down or get a dog or cat in order to have something to work for. Oddly enough, the burglar couldn't see it that way, and took a year's imprisonment instead.

Fairly Startled a Walter.
A waiter gave himself the worst of it by $2 in making change, according to the Chicago Evening Post. The man who paid the check saw the error and handed the bill back in the way of a tip. The waiter has been howling to the ground before him ever since and thinks he is some exiled prince living here in luck.

ENDLESS APRON MANURE SPREADER

The I. H. C. Newlow Manure Spreader is built close to the ground to meet the demand for a low down type of machine. It is lower than any other spreader on the market so it can be loaded easily, and by being built so low it has the advantage of other spreaders in that it can be loaded more evenly, and it can also be loaded as easily by a boy as by a man. By having only one wheel in front the pole does not swing and thrash about when crossing dead furrows or rough ground. It is built of the best material and is gaining in favor in the minds of all who see it.

Chanting About Our Ailments

THE chorus of physical ills doesn't rise to heaven quite so loud as formerly. But still there are plenty of people who go about chanting of their ailments. It is a sort of mournful recitative. "My throat gives me a great deal of trouble. I have a cold in my bronchial tubes all the time. I never had anything of the kind before I moved here. But the doctor says this is a very unhealthy part of the country. There is so much fog. My bronchial tubes—" and so it goes. No matter when you see this person of fog and bronchial tubes, the song is always the same. You know that her mind goes round and round in this little circle, like a squirrel in its cage. To her the universe is compressed in her throat. She never gets beyond it. Places are either desirable or undesirable as they affect her bronchial tubes. Life becomes to her a matter of cherishing her pipes.

With others, it is their head or their stomach, or some other organ. They can't do this or that or the other because it gives them a headache. Everything they eat is viewed warily, to see if it has an indigestible hue. Their whole attention is given to considering how the things of life will affect these pampered parts of their body.

If this course would bring relief it would be justified. But it doesn't. The woman who is continuously thinking of her bronchial tubes, and of how every little change in weather will freeze up her pipes, so to speak, is only making her throat worse. The person who views every morsel of food with fear, and refuses to eat this and that, because it will give him indigestion, only weakens his digestion, and brings upon himself, as did Job, the thing he fears.

All these people are living in an atmosphere of fear, of trembling anticipation of evil, and while they do this, they keep their vitality at low ebb. Thus they are unable to throw off the physical ills from which they are suffering.

This is today an accepted fact. Some go even farther, and say that the mental condition produces its physical correspondence, and that if you continually think a weak throat or a weak digestion, you will produce the weak throat and the weak digestion. But whether you wish to accept this doctrine or not, you certainly retard your return to health by living continually in this atmosphere of fear and worry.

Those who do this should make a determined effort to throw it off. They should begin by getting some interest that will entirely absorb them, so that they will forget their throat or their stomach or their head. It is difficult to put those ills out of your mind, especially when you have been nursing them, unless you fill your mind with something else. But if you will take up something that will entirely absorb you, a course of study, or some work, pleasure, or charitable duties, you will forget to notice whether the day is foggy, or whether the steak has been broiled in just that particular way that is warranted to "sit well" in your stomach.

So whether you believe in it or not, try the experiment. Forget the fog and your throat, or your head or your stomach. Give your mind something else to think about. Enjoy yourself. Pretty soon you'll find that your throat doesn't mind the fog either, and that your stomach can look a piece of restaurant pie calmly in the face. And you'll not only be better, but you'll be more warmly welcomed by your friends, and the atmosphere of your home will be more cheerful. And you should think of others as well as yourself. It is not pleasant for the members of a household to have to listen night and day to a chant about your feelings. They deserve something better than this. So, both for your own sake and others, drop the dirge of sickness, and indulge in a little ragtime on health and the joy of living. You'll find that your throat, or stomach or your head will chirp up at the change in tune, and the first thing you know, you'll be dancing along the highway of life, instead of plodding at a funeral pace.

"HOUN' DAWG" SONG

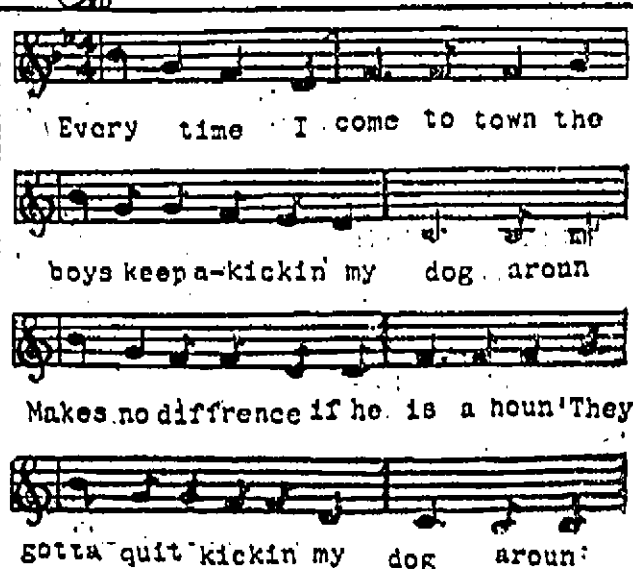

CAMPAIGN SLOGAN

Has Come Into Popularity With a Jump and is Being Quoted Everywhere.

That "Houn' Dawg" song that Champ-Clark's Missouri constituents sang at their state convention when nominating Clark delegates to attend the democratic national convention has jumped into popularity with a surprising quick step order. Many have heard the chorus but few the words and the following copy of the words, with the music for the chorus will be read with interest by Gazette subscribers who have seen repeated reference to it. Clark claims it as his own particular slogan but it will run him against the county jail; An' that plumb natchelly makes me sure,

"N' Lem he cussed, n' Bill he swore,
CHORUS,
Me n' Lem Briggs n' o' Bill Brown,
We lost no time in jumpin' down,
An' we whipped them ducks up on the ground,
For kickin' my o' dawg aroun'.
CHORUS,
Folks say a dawg kain't hold no grudge,
But wunst when I got too much budge,
Them town ducks tried to do me up,
But they didn't count on o' Jim-pup.
CHORUS,
Jim seed his duty thar an' then,
An' he lit into them gentlemen,
An' he shore mowed up the cote house square,
With rags n' meat n' hide n' hair!
CHORUS.

THE HOUN' SONG

doubtless be sung at many political meetings of both parties during the coming campaign days. The following are the words and chorus:

Words by Webb M. Oungat,
Music by Cy. Perkins.

Wunst me 'n Lem Briggs n' o' Bill Brown,
Tuk a load of cawn to town;
An' o' Jim-dawg, the dary cawn,
He jes natchelly follered us.

CHORUS,
Every time I come to town,
The boys keep kickin' my dawg aroun',
Makes no difference if he is a houn',
They gotta quit kickin' my dawg aroun'.

As we drif' past Sam Johnson's store,
Pawel o' yepes kem out th' door;
When Jim he stops to smell a box,
They shied at him a bunch o' rocks.

CHORUS,
They tied a tin can to his tail,

SOME REMINDERS.

In sewing on buttons to match the vertical button holes in shirt waists, it is well to remember that the button should be sewed on with the threads running the same way as the button hole or there will be a gaping button hole and easily unbuttoned button.

Lace curtains may be quickly mended by dipping a piece of lace to match in cold starch and ironing the piece over the hole, trim out and the place will never be noticed.

For dusting a sick room, cotton batting is recommended by physicians. Place a small bundle in a steamer, and when it is well moistened, used to remove all dust from the room. Burn the duster and all germs will go with it.

Don't fail to wipe the top of the milk bottle after removing the cap, for many hands may have handled it and not been over clean.

Coffee is much improved if a tablespoonful of freshly ground coffee is added to the pot just before serving.

Cream Pie.—Scald a pint of milk, add the yolks of two eggs, two tablespoonfuls of flour, a quarter of a cup of sugar and the whites of the eggs well beaten. Put into a crust and bake.

Salad dressing for fruit, two tablespoonfuls of almond butter, salt; add a half cup of water and two tablespoonfuls of lemon juice, drop by drop. Cook in a double boiler. Use with apple and banana salad.

DIET AND HEALTH HINTS

FEEDING IN TUBERCULOSIS.

Dr. John R. Murlin, professor of Physiology at Cornell University, says that the theory of feeding in tuberculosis has been exploded. "It should be borne in mind," he says in the official organ of the Society for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis, "that diminution in the supply of gastric juice, and consequently reduction of digestive ability, is common among consumptives. Therefore the enfeebled stomach should not be overburdened with more food than it can take care of. Disregard of this fact brings about much of the digestive and intestinal trouble of the tuberculous individual." Dr. Murlin contends that a consumptive will do well and gain weight on three pints of whole milk, eight ounces of cream, five ounces of milk sugar, six eggs and two slices of buttered toast, as a ration for each twenty-four hours. I have frequently emphasized the belief in these hints that the commonly accepted theory in regard to feeding in sickness in general and in tuberculosis in particular, is wrong. Any food taken above what the body can utilize imposes a drain upon the system to eliminate it and to antidote the poisons that must result from the waste—and if milk or eggs fail to digest or if the quantity is excessive, the injury is greater than from vegetable foods. Dr. David R. Lyman of Wallingford and Dr. Paul B. Johnson of Washington, D. C. In addition to others whom I have quoted, hold that the stuffing theory is wrong. Both agree that the average person eats too much. The quantity of food that a consumptive should take varies as does the quantity required by the normal person and any such advice as can be given in this way must be adapted to the case by the physician.

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

THERE is ample room for many kinds of people in the world, but there are many people who do not seem to realize that fact.

Some weeks ago, I wrote a little article urging people to do what they could to lighten the burden and prevent the abuse of delivery horses. Several letter friends kindly recommended this, but one wrote rebuking me for wasting my space and sympathy on the delivery horses "when there are so many poor, suffering children in the world who are surely more important than soulless animals."

Madame, your letter expresses an attitude which I have met many times, and which always arouses my antagonism. Does the fact that there are so many poor, suffering children in the world need to prevent every body from pitying the sufferings of dumb animals? To be tender to one form of suffering must not exclude all other forms?

I know a wealthy old man who gives almost all of his charity money towards various schemes for alleviating the sufferings of dumb animals. He is often criticized by people with my letter friend's viewpoint. "Just think of all the human beings in the world who are suffering," they say, "and he gives all his money for cats and dogs and horses. It's outrageous."

Now I can't see it that way at all. It seems to me a benevolent law of the universe that some people should be sensitive to one form of suffering and some to another. There are other people who will give liberally to relieve the condition of unfortunate fellow beings, who could, nevertheless, unfeelingly drive away the shivering, starving, lost dog that fawns on them, or see nothing so very pitiful in that joint skeleton of a horse, hitched to a load that two strong young horses might tug at, and lashed on and on by a brute of a master, until he dies in the traces. Folks like my wealthy old friend are the balance for this kind of people and help to make up a symmetrical world.

Think how many charities and philanthropies there are in the world. Is it not well that there should be so many different kinds of people to found and support them? Is it not fortunate that one man should be fitted to the sufferings of old people and give gladly to any scheme to make them a little happier, and that another should feel for the blind babies, and another for the heathen, and another for cripples, and another for the dumb doggie, and another for the fallen women, and a million others for almost as many kinds of suffering and need?

I, for my part, am not against anyone who is fighting to cure or relieve any form of abuse or suffering. I'm for him. His corner of the vision of responsibility may not be mine, nor mine his, but we are both set toward the same great goal.

The only tragedy, the only failure, the only culpability is not to have been softened and taught by your own sufferings to pity the sufferings of some other creature, animal or human being.

I was greatly impressed by the following sentence in a letter from Harriet Beecher Stowe to a friend, regarding the death of the authoress' little boy.

"It was at his dying bed," she writes, "and at his grave, that I learned what a poor slave mother may feel when her child is torn away from her. In those depths of sorrow which seemed to me immeasurable, it was my only prayer to God that such anguish might not be suffered in vain."

How little in vain that suffering was, millions of people know. There is ample room for many kinds of people in the world—the kind who pity the horse and dog, the kind who want to help the negro, the kind who love the homeless children. The only kind of people for whom there is not ample room is the kind who have no heart taught by their own experience to be eager to help some corner of the suffering of the world.

Fads and Fashion.

New York, Mar. 1.—There are many indications that the coming Spring season will see a revival of the taffeta tail. The Spring models shown in the shops include a large variety of taffeta frocks and they seem to please the fancy of the buyers. Women, who are compelled to use strict economy in matters of dress, will do well, however, to think twice before they invest in a taffeta frock. In the first place only the best grades of taffeta look well and last through the season and the grade taffetas are not particularly inexpensive; in the second place, taffeta, although undoubtedly a beautiful material when of good quality, is not suitable for every kind of frock, as it lacks the soft and clinging quality the present fashionable silhouette demands. For elegant costumes for afternoon wear it may be used to advantage either alone or in combination with some other material, but for plain frocks it is entirely unsuitable.

Appropos of summer possibilities and taffetas, the gay hued taffeta coats worn with lingerie frocks last summer and even the summer before, has the end descendants. With an adorable lingerie frock of embroidered net and lace a French designer has provided a sort of belted Russian blouse in changeable taffeta of the Russian watermelon pink tones. This coat, or blouse or tunic, or whatever one may choose to call it, is sleeveless, cut a little low and round in the neck, opens down the shoulders with rows of small buttons in an odd shape of green which harmonizes beautifully with the pink.

And has little embroidered imitation eyelets of green. There is the very narrowest of embroidered lines in green around the neck, the arm holes and the blouse taffeta which runs up to the belt at each side. A double row of green buttons and embroidered belt holes trim the front and run down to the bust line, though the blouse fastens invisibly under the left arm. A narrow fold, the circle is of the silk with a little striped and corded ornament of the silk for finish, and the taffeta falls well below the hips. Such a blouse could be worn effectively over any sheer white frock and something on the general line but less handsome might be very attractive.

There are, too, little taffeta boleros, usually draped, corded and striped so that they really take the place of boleros accompanying frocks of sheer lingerie material, and sometimes one sees a draped bolero of the taffeta with no pretence of bolero about it in company with a sheer skirt and sleeves or underdresses and collar or fichu. Such a model had a skirt of finest white cotton crepe with a border of broad band and a narrow waist, with a five inch strip of the white between. The bolero was the only trimming on the outfit, fitted skirt. The bolero was a little bolero of corn color taffeta over a high circle of the taffeta and underdresses and tulle were of tulle. A big black velvet rose was thrust into the circle top.

Although light weight coats are not quite sensible in the northern climate just now, many of them are purchased by women about to go south. The majority of these coats are made like those of the winter, but with slightly more skirt width toward the bottom, and of course, in light weight materials. The line is usually straight instead of narrowing toward the bottom, and, perhaps for that reason, the rounded front corners are seen less often than upon the winter coats. This applies, he it understood, only to the practical cover all coat of wool for motor and general utility service. More dressy models in taffeta, satin and even certain wools are often on the malle order, with much emphasized rounding away of fronts.

Perhaps the most interesting of the new coats, though not the most practical, are the all covering, ample, well tailored garments in white, white and black or white and gray, which figure prominently among the early importations. It is hard to pick and choose from among these, as they are all equally charming.

The smart white serge coats are numerous and of many styles, but the best looking of them are rather severe of line and tailoring, and the same rule applies to the other white wools, chevrons, cords, rathens of light weight, sponge weaves, etc. Both the soft serge and the hard twill, or cord serge, which is popular in Paris, are used for the white coats and white blouses are cleverly used to trim some models, while others depend entirely upon cut and tailoring for their effect. Buttons, too, are important and with the white coat clear crystal is much used, as are big pearl buttons; and where the cloth is of deep cream or ivory tint large buttons of imitation ivory are effective.

When the white coat has a touch of color in its lining, collar, etc., the color is, perhaps, echoed in the buttons, and handsome plain buttons of enamel and of crystal are to be had in colors. The reversible materials, white on one side and colored on the other, are shown in light weight and are used with the reverse side showing in big soft collars and cuffs and in some cases for button coverings.

Black and white checked wools are always in demand for spring suitings and service coats and whether in shepherd's plaid, chicken foot check or black check, they have a certain quality of freshness and smartness if well made.

Diagonals and stripes in white and black and white with gray are also numerous among the suitings and coatings and naturally one finds them among the ready made coats. The stripe itself, if the coat is of striped material, is cleverly used by the tailor to relieve the severity of the garment, transverse or diagonal use of the stripe as trimming offering excellent possibilities.

White collars, becoming if not altogether practical, appear upon many of the imported coats and there are beautiful new serges of medium tones with reverse side of white which make up delightfully both for suits and for light wraps.

Dark blue is as usual, favored by the coat designers and, although it shows dust and spots too readily to be as serviceable for motoring and hard wear as the mixed tweeds or neutral hued wools, it is admirable for a general utility coat that is to be worn on the street, in the carriage or for casual travel or motoring.

While wide girlishlike belts are fashionable, there is something chic and smart about the narrow belt which the former lacks. Black patent leather belts, one and a half inches in width are popular. These are decorated with a buckle to match, or one of antique silver. Plain attached cloth belts to match the suit are also worn. Sometimes these are trimmed with tiny white buttons arranged in a design at the back.

Narrow satin belts are in great demand. Some are made of contrasting color from that used in the dress. Suede and leather belts are made in all widths desired and in every color. The bracelet is to regain the favor which it once held. A very beautiful armband now being worn consists of a plain band of dull silver inset at intervals with large oval opals.

Pastor Russell Addressed Large Audience in Calcutta.

Calcutta, Feb. 18.—The foreign Missions Investigation Committee, appointed by the International Bible Students Association, is here. The Committee expedite their work by each member giving special attention to a different feature of the investigation. This is their third week in India and they have already traveled nearly two thousand miles. They are keenly interested in the heathen and in the Bible, but they declined to give in advance any hint of what their report will be as respects the missionary work here.

Pastor Russell, Chairman of the Committee, preached twice today to large and attentive audiences in our three auditoriums. One of his addresses, from Jeremiah 12, 23, 24, was reported. He said:—

"Your 'City of Palaces' greatly impresses me, as doubtless it does all who visit it. But as I look at its splendor I am reminded of that portion of my text which declares: 'Let him that glorieth glory in this, that he understandeth and knoweth Me; that I am the Lord, which exercise loving kindness, judgment and righteousness in the earth.' 'Whomsoever we go we perceive that man, by virtue of his creation, is a worshipper.

I stopped enroute at Juggernaut; the very name called up the stories of my childhood which so greatly aroused my sympathies for the poor heathen. Missionary reports told of how in ignorance the natives would throw themselves before the great Car of Juggernaut, feeling it an honor to thus sacrifice their lives. And now, here am I on the Ganges River, of which in childhood I heard so much that thrilled my heart with sympathy—how, mothers throw their babies into the Ganges, not because they had no sympathy with their offspring, but because they desired to sacrifice to and propitiate their gods.

"Now We Know in Part."
Now that I am here I do thank God that, although the heathen have not been converted to a true knowledge of the great Jehovah, they have, nevertheless, come under the strong hand of the British Government, which, whatever its defects, seeks at least to protect its subjects from the extremes of their own ignorance and superstition.

St. Paul wrote, 'Now we know in part, but then we shall know even as also we are known.' (1 Cor. xiii, 12) Also: How every true Christian must realize how his own knowledge of God and that of his forefathers has so slightly exceeded the knowledge of the heathen, that he found it difficult to 'glory' in his understanding of God. Only those who are adherents to the declarations of the Bible that 'God is Love,' that His mercy endureth ever, that He is like a plying father, that He is a God of All Grace, the Father of Mercies, whose loving kindness we cannot measure—only such have the assurance which enable them to offset the horrible theories of our creeds formulated in a darker past, and which told us more horrible things respecting our God and His treatment of mankind than our poor heathen brethren ever imagined.

But now the better day is dawning! We are seeing the glorious outlines of the Divine character in the Divine Plan as never before! Our hearts first led the way and rebelled against the dictum of our fallacious reasoning. And now, in God's due time, when nature is yielding up her secrets and chemistry is making the world anew, behold the key to the Divine Word is thrust into our hands, unlocking its mysteries and explaining its parabolic symbols to our astonished faith!

Knowing Our God,
Our Redeemer declared, 'This is life eternal, that they might know Thee, the only true and living God, and Jesus Christ, whom Thou hast sent.' Evidently the great Teacher had in mind the thought of our text—not merely a knowledge about God, but an acquaintance with Him, such as can come only through a fellowship of spirit and an understanding of the Divine Program.

In our blindness of the past, assuming that all the non-belief would be assigned to an eternity of torture, we published in our missionary reports that ninety thousand every day go down into death, into Christian graves—and, by inference, into eternal torture.

Now we read God's character in fairer lines. Now we perceive that for a thousand years, the Elect, on the heavenly plane, invisible to men, 'like unto the angels,' will live and reign with Christ (Rev. xx, 4) for the blessing of the non-belief—for their uplifting from conditions of sin and imperfection back to the glorious heights of the image of God in the flesh.

Every Day is the Best Day.
Write it on your heart that every day is the best day in the year. No man has learned anything rightly, until he knows that every day is 'Doomsday.'—Emerson.

At The Theatre

"THE CHOCOLATE SOLDIER."

One must search the pages of the great history with a microscope to find a parallel to the sustained success that has attended "The Chocolate Soldier" since its opening night on Broadway three years ago. "The Chocolate Soldier" is a masterpiece of every human emotion, spread over New York that night and the next morning like the news of a financial panic, and were transmitted with marvellous speed throughout the country. The tide of popular prejudice against light opera was stemmed over night, and that form of amusement became once more the favorite of the American people.

This opera, which wrought such a transformation in metropolitan circles, and still holds undisputed sway over audiences everywhere, will be presented in this city on Tuesday March 5, at Myers Theatre by the Whitney Opera Company with a production that Mr. Whitney has renovated and elaborated from stem to stern. The scenery is fresh from the studios and the costumes were made in Bulgaria, the scenes of the "Chocolate Soldier." A distinguished feature of the tour is the orchestra of trained Viennese musicians engaged especially for the third triumphant season. Strauss music will, it is needless to say, be heard at its best.

For the libretto of his opera, which has carried his name half way around the world, Oscar Straus is indebted to "Arnie and the Man," Bernard Shaw's lovely comedy-satire in which the audacious Irish wit played havoc with our orthodox notions of war, courage, honor, love and government, his favorite topics of ridicule in his other equally famous comedies.

Heading the cast of "The Chocolate Soldier" is Ray Purviance and the best to be said of him is that he is all that is desired of the part. Miss Frances Hewitt sings the role of Nadina with wonderful talent; Lotta Gale sings the part of Aurelia Popoff; Emma Loomis makes a very fascinating Mascha; J. Russell Powell as the fierce Massakoff is very amusing to everyone; Nelson Riley and J. P. McDonough keep up their well-known reputation in the roles of Popoff and Alexius.

THE SERVANT IN THE HOUSE.

"It would have been well nigh impossible ten years ago to have put 'The Servant in the House' into the theatre," says O. L. Hull in the Chicago Evening Journal. "Either it would have frightened the audience out into the street, or it would have been called a great success. But look at it now as being neither wrong nor fearful, but as a work of great beauty and power, carrying the healing word to all people. How incalculably far our stage has advanced in a few short years, or how greatly our viewpoint has changed! We have but to demand that the dramatist show us he has some big and uplifting purpose before we will name his play great. This gradual change from resentment to acceptance of a great thought dramatically set forth has made possible a masterpiece like "The Servant in the House." It is a great play for the man who thinks he is a saint or the man who thinks he is a sinner."

Manager Myers deserves great credit for having persuaded Messrs. Gaskill and MacVitty, the producers, to send this great play here for another season. The original New York production will be seen, with the greatest company of players, headed by Hugo H. Koch, ever sent into the Middle West.

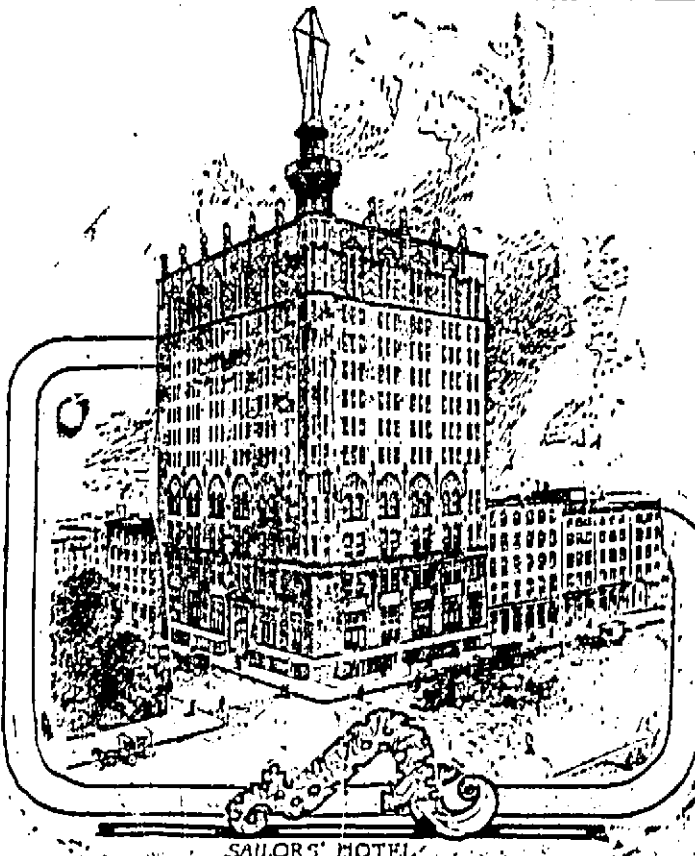

LYMAN H. HOWE.

Ever since the public has been impressed with the fact that a nation's life depends upon its navy, it has become more and more interested in the stupendous progress made in naval construction. But as the subject makes dull reading, and in order to dispel the vague ideas existing as to the actual magnitude and power of "Our Navy," Secretary von L. Meyer invited Lyman H. Howe's photographers to accompany him on his official review and inspection of the greatest fleet of battleships ever which the American flag has ever flown. How admirably they did their work last November in New York Harbor may be seen at the Myers Theatre March 26 and 27, matinees 27th.

The one hundred and two light line ships, ranging from dreadnaughts of the Delaware type to submarines which constitute the last word in modern naval construction, the U. S. S. Dolphin, with Mr. Howe's photographs in the bow, steamed up one avenue lined with battleships and down another while two thousand guns boomed their "salutes" in saluting the Secretary of the Navy.

To many minds the scenes will impart the first true conception of what is meant by our dreadnaughts and superdreadnaughts, all of which are shown at very close range. The terrible fighting efficiency of our battleships—the most powerful that the world has yet seen—is depicted in a manner that is inspiring and instructive.

A series which depicts the classic beauty of Italy, the land of historic and romantic the latest Paris fashions (in color), the wonders of the Grand River Canyon, Colorado, the newest mode of locomotion through water and air by means of the hydroplane, the perils of climbing dizzy heights of the Alps, and the daring maneuvers of Italian cavalrymen, are among the many other subjects in Mr. Howe's "gallery of masterpieces" in motion photography.

SAILORS' HOTEL.
WALDORF OF SAILORDOM.

New York, City.—A modern hotel for seamen where neat sanitary rooms can be had at from 10 to 50 cents a night has been the dream of philanthropists for many years. The dream is about to be realized in the million dollar structure now being erected here for the exclusive accommodation of sailors. J. P. Morgan and J. D. Rockefeller are two of the many philanthropists who have helped build it. $600,000 has already been subscribed. The steel framework of the new $1,000,000 Saylor's Hotel, which the Seamen's Church Institute is building at Coenties Slip, New York, is rapidly nearing completion. This Waldorf of sailordom will provide sanitary rooms neatly furnished at 10 to 50 cents a night. There will be a restaurant providing meals at cost, lounging rooms, gymnasium, shower bath, concert hall and chapel. The different grades of seamen will be in different parts of the hotel, the same as on board ship.

New Kind of Angel.
Appropos of the editorial, "How Children See Angels," in the Evening Mail, a Wall street man informs the Office Window of an interesting instance of infantile angelism. Two youngsters, age about six, agreed to play hunting. The one acted the hunter, the other a hippopotamus. After indulging in their antics for several moments, the hippopotamus was brought down by a shot from the youthful Teddy. The boy played the part as the dead monster for several moments; then, suddenly rising, he slowly paced the room, flapping his hands above his head in wing-like fashion. A grown third party, without the sensitive vision of the child, was prompted to remark: "But, Will, I thought you were dead." Then came the reply: "Yes, aunt, but now I am a hippopotamus angel!"

Periods for Viewing Meteors.
An examination of the records of shooting star observations made in Bristol during the years 1886 to 1911 shows that the frequency of meteors is maximum towards the end of July and the beginning of August. During the first six months of the year the total number of meteors observed on a clear, moonless night is only about six per hour. At the beginning of July the frequency increases, and attains its maximum, sixty-nine per hour, on August 10. The mean for the entire year is twenty-four meteors per hour.

Tailoring to Men as Individuals

A few years ago the tailor who advertised was an exception. Today the really good tailor considers advertising just as essential a part of his business as a good cutter and expert tailors.

Men who after reading the dreams of makers of ready made clothes tried them for a season or two are coming back to the good tailor—for satisfaction.

Janeville men who know Allen and his work know good tailoring.

My aim is to treat every man as an individual, to show him those fabrics which will enhance his looks, to show him the styles which will best suit his figure and then to cut and fashion his clothes so that they will seem a part of him. That's tailoring to men as individuals as only Allen does it.

Ready now with the newest fabrics for Spring and Summer, domestic and imported.

WORKING ON COMPLEX SCIENTIFIC PROBLEM

Inventor of Babcock Tester Engaged in Important Research Work at University Laboratories.

(Special to THE GAZETTE.)

Madison, Wis., March 1.—"What makes you and me, the plants and the trees grow?"

Dr. S. M. Babcock, inventor of the world-famous milk-test bearing his name and a professor in the University of Wisconsin, has been working for seven years in the attempt to solve this problem. In a bulletin of the state agricultural college, Dean H. L. Russell indicates that Dr. Babcock is traveling fast after the secret of both animal and plant life. Dr. Babcock's study is directed to the explanation that all living organisms contain water abundantly in their tissues, some of which is taken directly, some is absorbed in the solid food, and some, termed "metabolic" water to distinguish it from the water supplied from other sources, is formed within the organism as the result of the respiration process, due to the oxidation of the organic matter of the food in the tissues of plants and animals.

In explaining Dr. Babcock's studies, Dean Russell says: "He has discovered important relations existing between the presence of such water in plant and animal tissues and the respiratory processes of living cells. The formation of the internal water changes the cell contents, disturbing the equilibrium of the cell, and causing a movement of food material toward the cells. This process continues so long as proper nutriment are available to supply the waste caused by respiration."

"It has been shown that the action of this 'metabolic' water plays an important part in the germination of seeds. It is also the chief source of succulence of ripened fruits. It seems quite probable, also, that the increase in water content and the development of any pressure during the resting period of deciduous trees, as well as the early growth of buds in the spring, is due in large measure to this cause."

These researches open up an interesting, but comparatively new aspect of physiological processes of great importance in both animal and plant life.

CURIOUS BITS OF HISTORY

SOME WILD-CAT RAILROAD-
ING.

By A. W. MACY.

Some remarkable railroads were built in this country—on paper—during the years 1836-1840. One of the most ambitious was "The Great Western Railroad," projected to run from New York city to Lake Erie, and thence westward to the Mississippi river, a distance of about 1,000 miles. It was to be built on piling, and the total cost was estimated at $15,000,000. Great enthusiasm prevailed, and much excitement. Lands were received for subscriptions at extravagant prices. Cities were staked out at various points along the proposed route. Some people even feared that all the land adjacent to the road would be occupied by cities and none be left for farming purposes. Numerous other roads were projected to the north and to the south, to connect with this great trunk line, and "terminal cities" of magnificent proportions were laid out. One state legislature (Illinois) planned the construction of 1,300 miles of "state railroad," to cost over a billion dollars. More than $8,000,000 were actually appropriated for "internal" improvements, and when Governor Ford took office in 1842 there was hardly enough unappropriated money in the state treasury to buy a postage stamp.

FRECKLES

Now is the Time to Get Rid of These Ugly Spots.

The woman with tender skin dreads March because it is sure to cover her face with ugly freckles. No matter how thick her veil, the sun and winds will surely make her freckle.

Fortunately for her peace of mind, the recent discovery of a new drug called—double strength—makes it possible for even those most susceptible to freckles to keep the skin clear and white. No matter how stubborn a case of freckling you have, the double strength ointment will remove them, blot an ounce package from J. C. L. Co., and banish the freckles. Money back if it fails.

HELPFUL HINTS ON HAIR HEALTH

Scalp, And Hair Troubles Generally Caused by Carelessness.

Dandruff is a contagious disease caused by a microbe which also produces baldness. Never use a comb or brush belonging to anyone else. No matter how clean the owner may be, these articles may be infected with microbes which will infect your scalp. It is far easier to catch hair microbes than it is to get rid of them, and a single stroke of an infected comb or brush may well lead to baldness. Never try on anybody else's hat. Many a hat band is a resting place for microbes.

If you happen to be troubled with dandruff, itching scalp, falling hair or baldness, we have a remedy which we believe will completely relieve these troubles. We are so sure of this that we offer it to you with the understanding that if it does not produce the results we claim, this remedy is called "Roxall's Hair Tonic." We honestly believe it to be the most scientific remedy for scalp and hair troubles, and we know of nothing else that equals it for effectiveness, because of the results it has produced in thousands of cases.

Roxall's Hair Tonic is devised to banish dandruff, restore natural color when the hair has been brought about by disease, and make the hair naturally silky, soft and glossy. It does this because it stimulates the hair follicles, destroys the germ matter, and brings about a free, healthy circulation of blood, which nourishes the hair roots, causing them to flourish and grow new hair. We want everybody who has any trouble with hair or scalp to know that we think that Roxall's Hair Tonic is the best hair tonic and restorative in existence, and no one should scoff at it or doubt this statement until they have put our claims to a fair test, with the understanding that they pay us nothing for the remedy if it does not give full and complete satisfaction in every particular. Two sizes, 50 cents and $1.00. Remember you can obtain Roxall's Remedies in Jansville only at our store, The Roxall Store, The Smith Drug Co., 14 West Milwaukee St., Jansville, Wisconsin.

CHAPTER XXVI.

The End of the Ghost's Love Story.

The previous chapter marks the conclusion of the written narrative which the Persian left behind him.

Notwithstanding the horrors of a situation which seemed definitely to abandon them to their deaths, M. de Chagny and his companion were saved by the sublime devotion of Christine Daae. And I had the rest of the story from the lips of the daroga himself.

When I went to see him, he was still living in his little flat in the Rue de Rivoli, opposite the Tuilleries. He was very ill, and it required all my order as an historian pledged to the truth to persuade him to live the incredible tragedy over again for my benefit. His faithful old servant Darius showed me in to him. The daroga received me at a window overlooking the garden of the Tuilleries. He still had his magnificent eyes, but his poor face looked very worn. He had shaved the whole of his head, which was usually covered with an astrakhan cap; he was dressed in a long, plain coat and amused himself by unconsciously twisting his thumbs inside the sleeves; but his mind was quite clear, and he told me his story with perfect lucidity.

It seems that, when he opened his eyes, the daroga found himself lying on a bed. M. de Chagny was on a sofa, beside the wardrobe. An angel and a devil were watching over him.

After the deceptions and illusions of the torture-chamber, the precision of the details of that quiet little middle-class room seemed to have been invented for the express purpose of puzzling the mind of the mortal man enough to stray into that abode of living nightmare. The wooden bedstead, the waxed mahogany chairs, the chest of drawers, those brasses, the little square antimacassars carefully placed on the backs of the chairs, the clock on the mantelpiece and the harmless-looking ebony caskets at either end, and, lastly, the whatnot filled with shells, with red pin-cushions, with mother-of-pearl boxes and an enormous ostrich-egg, the whole discreetly lighted by a shaded lamp standing on a small round table; this collection of ugly, peaceable, reasonable furniture, at the bottom of the opera cellars, bewildered the imagination more than all the late fantastic happenings.

And the figure of the masked man seemed all the more formidable in this old-fashioned, neat, and trim little frame. It bent down over the Persian and said, in his own voice:

"Are you better, daroga?"

You are looking at my furniture? It is all that I have left of my poor unhappy mother."

Christine Daae did not say a word; she moved about noiselessly, like a sister of charity, who had taken a vow of silence. She brought a cup of cordial, or of hot tea, he did not remember which. The man in the mask took it from her hands and gave it to the Persian. M. de Chagny was still sleeping.

Erik poured a drop of rum into the daroga's cup, and pointing to the viscount, said:

"He came to himself long before we knew if you were still alive, daroga. He is quite well. He is asleep. We must not wake him."

Erik left the room for a moment, and the Persian raised himself on his elbow, looked around him and saw Christine Daae sitting by the fireside. He spoke to her, called her, but he was still very weak and fell back on his pillow. Christine came to him, laid her hand on his forehead and went away again. And the Persian remembered that, as she went, she did not give a glance at M. de Chagny, who, it is true, was always down fully, and she sat down again in her chair by the chimney-corner, silent as a sister of charity who had taken a vow of silence.

Erik returned with some little bottles which he placed on the mantelpiece. And, again in a whisper, he said not to wake M. de Chagny, he said to the Persian, after sitting down and feeling his pulse:

Silent as a Sister of Charity Who Had Taken a Vow of Silence.

"You are now saved, both of you. And soon I shall take you up to the surface of the earth, to please my wife."

Thereupon he rose, without any further explanation, and disappeared once more.

The Persian now looked at Christine's quiet profile under the lamp. She was reading a tiny book, with gilt edges, like a religious book. There are editions of The Imitation that look like that. The Persian still had in his ears the natural tone in which the other had said, "to please my wife." Very gently, he called her again; but Christine was wrapped up in her book and did not hear him.

Erik returned, mixed the daroga a draft and advised him not to speak to "his wife" again nor to any one, because it might be very dangerous to everybody's health.

Eventually, the Persian fell asleep, like M. de Chagny, and did not wake until he was in his own room, nursed by his faithful Darius, who told him that, on the night before, he was found propped against the door of his flat, where he had been brought by a stranger, who rang the bell before going away.

As soon as the daroga recovered his strength and his wife, he sent to Count Philippe's house to inquire after the viscount's health. The answer was that the young man had not been seen and that Count Philippe was dead. His body was found on the bank of the opera lake, on the Rue Serpente side. The Persian remembered the regulation mace which he had heard from behind the wall of the torture-chamber, and had no doubt concerning the crime and the criminal. Knowing Erik as he did, he easily reconstructed the tragedy. Thinking that his brother had run away with Christine Daae, Philippe had dashed in pursuit of him along the Brussels Road, where he knew that everything was prepared for the elopement. Following to find the pair, he hurried back to the opera, remembered Raoul's strange confessions about his fantastic rival and learned that the viscount had made every effort to enter the cellars of the theater and that he had disappeared, leaving his hat in the prima donna's dressing-room beside an empty placard-case. And the count, who no longer entertained any doubt of his brother's madness, in his turn darted into that infernal underground maze. This was enough, in the Persian's eyes, to explain the discovery of Count de Chagny's corpse on the shore of the lake, where the siren, Erik's siren, kept watch.

The Persian did not hesitate. He determined to inform the police. Now the case was in the hands of an examining-magistrate called Faure, an incredulous, commonplace, superficial sort of person (I write as I think), with a mind utterly unprepared to receive any confidence of this kind. M. Faure took down the daroga's depositions and proceeded to treat him as a madman.

Despairing of ever obtaining a hearing, the Persian sat down to write. As the police did not want his evidence, perhaps the press would be glad of it; and he had just written the last line of the narrative I have quoted in the preceding chapters, when Darius announced the visit of a stranger who refused his name, who would not show his face and declared simply that he did not intend to leave the place until he had spoken to the daroga.

The Persian at once felt who his singular visitor was and ordered him to be shown in. The daroga was right. It was the ghost, it was Erik! He looked extremely weak and leaned against the wall, as though he were afraid of falling. Taking off his hat, he revealed a forehead white as wax. The rest of the horrible face was hidden by the mask.

The Persian rose to his feet as Erik entered.

"Murderer of Count Philippe, what have you to say with his brother and Christine Daae?"

Erik staggered under this direct attack, kept silent for a moment, dragged himself to a chair and heaved a deep sigh. Then, speaking in short phrases and, gasping for breath between the words:

"Daroga, don't talk to me about Count Philippe. . . . He was dead. . . . by the time I left my house. . . . he was dead. . . . when. . . . the siren came. . . . it was an. . . . accident. . . . a sad. . . . a very sad. . . . accident. . . . He fell very awkwardly. . . . but simply and naturally. . . . into the lake!"

"You lie!" shouted the Persian.

Erik bowed his head and said: "I have not come here to talk about Count Philippe. . . . but to tell you that. . . . I am going to die."

"Where are Raoul de Chagny and Christine Daae?"

"I am going to die."

"Raoul de Chagny and Christine Daae?"

"Of love. . . . daroga. . . . I am dying. . . . of love. . . . That is how it is. . . . I loved her so! . . . And I love her still!"

"daroga. . . . and I am dying of love for her. I tell you!"

"If you knew how beautiful she was. . . . when she let me kiss her alive. . . . It was the first time I ever kissed a woman."

"Yes, alive. . . . I kissed her alive. . . . and she looked as beautiful as if she had been dead!"

The Persian shook Erik by the arm.

"Will you tell me if she is alive or dead?"

"Why do you shake me like that?" asked Erik, making an effort to speak more connectedly. "I tell you that I am going to die. . . . Yes, I kissed her alive."

"And now she is dead?"

"I tell you I kissed her just like that, on her forehead. . . . and she did not draw back her forehead from my lips! . . . Oh, she is a good girl! . . . As to her being dead, I don't think so; but it has nothing to do with me. . . . No, no, who is not dead! And no one shall touch a hair of her head! She is a good, honest girl, and she saved my life, daroga, at a moment when I would not have given two pence for my Persian skin. As a matter of fact, nobody bothered about you. Why were you there with that little chap? You would have died as well as he! My word, how she entreated me for her little chap! But I told her that, as she had turned the reception, she had, through that very fact, and of her own free will, become engaged to me and that she did not need to have two men engaged to her, which was true enough."

SUGGESTIVE QUESTIONS

On the Sunday School Lesson by Rev. Dr. Linscott for the International Press Bible Question Club.

(Copyright 1910 by Rev. J. S. Linscott, D.D.)

March 3, 1912.

(Copyright, 1911, by Rev. J. S. Linscott, D.D.)

The Call of the First Disciples. Mark 1:14-28; Luke 9:11.

Golden Text—The harvest truly is plenteous, but the laborers are few. Pray ye therefore the Lord of the harvest that he will send forth laborers into his harvest. Matt. 9:37-38.

(1) Verses 14-15—How do you understand the phrase, "preaching the gospel of the kingdom of God?"

(2) What is repentance?

(3) If a man is truly penitent does he necessarily believe the gospel? Why or why not?

(4) Verses 16-18—Take the two occupations, literal fishermen and "fishers of men," and say which would be the more honorably calling to one whom God had called to be a literal fisherman.

(5) Did Jesus invite or command them to follow him?

(6) How do you account for the strange fact that these two men so promptly forsook their nets and followed him?

(7) Verses 19-20—Why did Jesus have a preference for unlearned fishermen rather than scholars to become his chief apostles?

(8) Why is it probable that Jesus knew these men in advance and selected them for their fitness for the work?

(9) Does God ever call any man to a work for which he is not fitted? Give your reasons.

(10) Verses 21-22—Is every man under obligation to keep the Sabbath day and to do some good on that day, as Jesus did? Give your reasons.

(11) Will any preacher who knows the mind of God astonish his hearers as Jesus did?

(12) Verses 23-25—What proof is there that today a very bad man, possessed with the worst devil we know, may by coming to Jesus be suddenly made a very good man?

(13) Luke 9:13—Should all true preachers be as popular and draw crowds like Jesus did at this time? Why or why not?

(14) There are thousands of people on the streets and at different resorts who never attend any place of worship. Why is it the duty of the modern church to send the gospel to them where they are?

(15) Verses 47—What reason is there to think that God takes as much interest in our secular business as Jesus did in the business of Peter?

(16) Do all those who get God's directions on their business matters obtain from him reliable information as to where or how success may be achieved? Why or why not?

(17) Why should our past business failures be no bar to our faith concerning God's present business directions?

(18) Verses 50—How do you account for it that this great business success made Peter see his sins?

(19) Do phenomenal business blessings increase or decrease a good man's humility?

(20) Verse 11—When is it right and when wrong for a Christian to give up his secular business and devote himself wholly to Christian work? (This is one of the questions that may be answered in writing by members of the club.)

Lesson for Sunday, March 10, 1912. Jesus the Healer. Mark 1:23-45; Matt. 11:23-25.

CHAS. J. DENEEN.

ILLINOIS LAW VOID

Springfield, Ill.—No state supreme court decision in years has brought about such a crisis in any state as the one just rendered in Illinois. The trouble is due entirely to the rash methods employed during the last hours of each legislative assembly for the last 40 years.

Very important laws and bills were passed without the third reading. Each of these are now declared void. Gov. Deneen is to call an extra session of the legislature to correct as much as far as possible, the trouble and confusion caused by the decision.

All in the Name.

"Funny thing about names," says Noah Count of Chiggerbit. "Now, there was my old friend, Yule B. Slick. He started in the drug business and plastered all over town: 'Take Our Drugs, Yule B. Slick. The Busy Corner.' Well, he didn't have any more trade than a rabbit. So one day he took a squint at that sign and saw what the matter. Had a sudden inspiration and ran for a sign painter. The next day, all over town, was: 'Take Our Drugs, Y. B. Slick.' The 'Busy Corner.' And now he's the richest man in this here town."—Kansas City Star.

Diamond Wedding Anniversary.

Mayor Gaynor, replying to an invitation to the diamond jubilee celebration of a wedding of a couple, now respectively 80 and 85 years old, said he would be unable to be at the gathering, but he added: "I wish I could attend. The most important thing of all is that they have reared a family of eight children. They are deserving of the highest honor, especially the mother. The women of this country who are postponing motherhood, or refusing to altogether, are denying themselves the greatest happiness that can come to women."—New York Sun.

ALL-RUN-DOWN AND GENERALLY MISERABLE

New Tonic Tona Vita in Use At Health Resorts For This Trouble.

If you are nervous and run-down with little vitality or ambition, and feel generally miserable and half-sick, you are suffering from nervous debility. If so you should investigate the new tonic "Tona Vita" and find out what a record it has made since first introduced scarcely a year ago.

Do you know that "Tona Vita" is now pronounced by hundreds of physicians as the most remarkable tonic known. Do you know that "Tona Vita" is used in high-class sanitariums and health resorts as a nerve food and tonic? Do you know that during the past year more than fifty thousand people have stated over their own signatures that "Tona Vita" has completely restored their health.

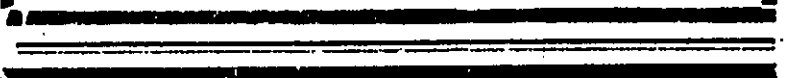

Mr. James L. Hickey, of 239 North Division Street, Buffalo, N. Y., the well known National League "Umpire, is one of those. This is what he says: "The nature of my profession frequently necessitated irregularity in sleeping and eating and as a result I became a victim of nervous debility. I had had headaches and indigestion. My nerves troubled me also and I did not get sufficient rest from my sleep. I would become fatigued very easily and was almost prostrated by hot weather. I had tried other means to restore my normal condition when a friend suggested the tonic 'Tona Vita.' I took his advice and am glad of it. My appetite improved at once. My headaches became less frequent and have gradually disappeared and I am no longer nervous or depressed. My stomach is now in perfect condition. In fact, I am thoroughly rejuvenated. We have an agent in every city who will refund the purchase price if 'Tona Vita' fails to completely build you up."

Smith Drug Co. has the agency for Tona Vita in Jansville. The Approved Formula Company, Dayton, Ohio.

"EX-BOSS" RUEF
ABE RUEF BACK IN FRISCO.
San Francisco.—Abe Ruef has been brought back here as a witness after exactly eleven months in the state penitentiary at San Quentin, where he is serving a fourteen year sentence for bribery. The reason of California wants him as a witness against his former political ally, former Mayor Eugene F. Schmitz. The camera man snapped him at the telephone just as he was telephoning to his slator and this is one of the most remarkable pictures of the one time political dictator of San Francisco.
His testimony on the stand is the result of a new law in the nature of an amendment which provides that "hereafter a person offending against the laws of this state is a competent witness against any other person so offending and may be compelled to attend and testify upon any trial in the same manner as any other person."

DUBUQUE'S SOLUTION TO HIGH COST OF LIVING
A solution of the problem of the high cost of living is one of the national questions of greatest importance to all the people of the country. That the Chief Executive of the Nation welcomes all ideas which will be of assistance in solving this great and vital question is proved by the enthusiasm with which he has just recognized the offer of the City of Dubuque, Iowa, to answer any and all inquiries about her famous market.
